ENGRAVED BY FREEBAIRN, WITH BATES' PATENT ANAGLYPTOGRAPH,

A SALVER OF THE SIXTEENTH CENTURY,

BY JEAN GOUJON,

FROM

THE ORIGINAL IN THE POSSESSION OF GEORGE VIVIAN, ESQ.

Prints, 10s. 6d. Proofs, £1. 1s. Before Letters, £2. 2s.

This magnificent work of art, measuring nineteen inches in diameter, is wrought in metal by the celebrated JEAN GOUJON, who flourished in the sixteenth century, and occupies the same place in the history of the French art, that Benvenuto Cellini does in Italian.

The character and nobleness of the design of the allegorical and historical figures which grace the composition, show how greatly Primaticcio, and his school, who worked in France under the auspices of Francis the First, contributed to refine the taste of that country.

Although the design of this work exhibits many forms that are not Italian, it is marked by a fertility of invention and happy arrangement of ornament, almost in an equal degree with the best works of the same class in Italy.

The motive of the composition is an illustration of War and Peace. Mars occupies the centre. The twelve medallions—eight in the outer, and four in the inner band of ornament, contain allegorical representations of the four quarters of the globe, and of War, Envy, Peace, and Abundance, and figures of Cyrus, Æneas, Alexander the Great, and Julius Cæsar: all these are surrounded with a profusion of appropriate ornament, as trophies, cornucopie, &c.
