

- Ahmed Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahím, i. Pref. xxv.
 — Ibn Abí Ghálib Ar-russáfí, ii. 190.
 — Ibn Abí-l-hasan 'Alí Ibn Yúsuf Al-búní (Abú-l-'abbás), i. 115; account of his life and writings, 406.
 — Ibn Abí Músa (Abú Ja'far Ibn Bokannah), ii. App. xvii.
 — Ibn Abí Sálím, surnamed Dhú-d-dauleeyn (he of the two reigns), Sultán of Fez, ii. 365.
 — Ibn Abí Táhír, his history of Baghdád, i. 177, 186, 314.
 — Ibn Ahmed Al-azdí, historian, ii. 407.
 — Ibn [Ahmed Ibn Yahya Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán Ibn Abí-l-aysh Ibn] Mohammed Abí-l-'abbás Ibn Mohammed Ibn Ahmed Ibn Abí Bekr Ibn 'Alí Al-makkarí At-telemsání (Shehábu-d-dín), copy of his work sent to Madrid and lost, i. Pref. xiii; merits and defects of, xiv; abridgements of, xvii; his life translated from Amín Jelebí, xxxi; account of his family and ancestors, 302, 307.
 — Ibn 'Alí, a native of Baghdád, settles in Cordova, ii. 200.
 — Ibn 'Alí (Abú Bekr) surnamed Al-khattíb Al-baghdádí, continues the history of Baghdád, i. 459.
 — Ibn 'Alí Ibn Mohammed Ibn Khátimah Al-ansarí (Abú Ja'far), his history of Almeria, i. 51, 359.
 — Ibn Al-kásim, of the Idrísites of Africa, ii. 466.
 — Ibn 'A'mir Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán Al-jezayrí, his abridgement of Al-makkarí's history of Mohammedan Spain, i. Pref. xvii.
 — Ibn Básah, architect, builds the great mosque of Seville, ii. 523.
 — Ibn Dahim, ii. 170.
 — Ibn Dauh, his poem in praise of the pomegranate, i. 489.
 — Ibn Fadhl Ad-dinawarí, ii. 200.
 — Ibn Faraj (Abú 'Amru), his history of celebrated rebels, i. 187, 464; his collection of Andalusian poetry, 185, 430, 443; his history of Spain, ii. 171.
 — Ibn Hajr (Abú-l-fadhl Shehábu-d-dín) Al'askalání, his treatise on Arabian surnames, i. Pref. xxvi.
 — Ibn Hárún Ibn Rúh Al-bardá'í (Abú Bekr), i. 192, 470.
 — Ibn Háshim Ibn 'Abdi-l-'azíz Ibn Háshim, ii. 454.
 Ahmed Ibn Hazm (Abú 'A'mir), Wizír of Al-mansúr Ibn Abí 'A'mir, i. 335, ii. 487.
 — Ibn Hishám, of the family of Umeyyah, execution of, ii. 455.
 — Ibn Ibán Ibn Seyíd, lexicographer, i. 147, 184.
 — Ibn Ibráhím Ibn Kolzam, poet, ii. 445.
 — Ibn Ibráhím Ibn Zubeyr, historian, his continuation of the Silah, ii. 497.
 — Ibn Is'hák, Wizír of 'Abdu-r-rahmán III., executed, ii. 136.
 — Ibn Is'hák Al-korayshí, general of 'Abdu-r-rahmán III. of Cordova, ii. 442, 445.
 — Ibn Is'hák Ibn Zeyd Ibn Táhír (Abú Bekr), King of Murcia, ii. 512.
 — Ibn Jobeyr Al-kenání, ii. 400.
 — Ibn Jorj Adh-dhahebí (Abú Ja'far), i. App. xix, xx.
 — Ibn Kemmál (Abú-l-'abbás), ii. 336.
 — Ibn Kháled, i. 499, ii. 112, 178.
 — Ibn Khattáb Al-khazení, ii. App. lxxviii.
 — Ibn Marzúk Abú-l-'abbás, ii. 539.
 — Ibn Mohammed (Abú-l-'abbás), i. 422.
 — Ibn Mohammed Al-azdí, ii. 25.
 — Ibn Mohammed Ibn 'Abdi-l-khalíl Ibn Mu-farráj, surnamed Ibnu-r-rúmiyyah and Al-'ashsháb, physician and botanist, i. 198, 481, ii. 474.
 — Ibn Mohammed Ibn 'Abdillah, governor of Jaen, defeats the Muwallads, ii. 443.
 — Ibn Mohammed Ibn 'Abdillah Abú 'Omar At-talamankí (from Salamanca), i. 146, 422, 423.
 — Ibn Mohammed Ibn 'Abdi-r-rabbihí (Abú 'Amru), poet, account of his life and writings, i. 170, 339; verses by, ii. 134, 149, 171.
 — Ibn Mohammed Ibn Abí 'Abdah (Abú-l-'abbás), general of 'Abdullah, ii. 452, 456, 459.
 — Ibn Mohammed Ibn Ahmed, i. App. xi.
 — Ibn Mohammed Ibn Ahmed Ibn 'Alí Ibnu-l-'afiyah Al-meknásí Ibnu-l-kádhí, preceptor of Muley Zidán, Emperor of Morocco, i. Pref. xxviii; work written by, ib.
 — Ibn Mohammed Ibn Darráj or Derráj Al-kasttalí (Abú 'Omar), poet, notice of, i. 342, ii. 190, 233.
 — Ibn Mohammed Ibn Húd, King of Murcia, ii. 338.
 — Ibn Mohammed Ibn Músa Ar-rází At-táríkhí, historian, i. 17, 18, 21, 217, 314; account of his life and writings, 173, 186, 463.

- Ahmed Ibn Mohammed Ibn Músa Ibnu-l-'arif As-senhájí, ii. 483.
- Ibn Mohammed Ibn Mos'adeh Al-gharnáttí (Abú Ja'far), i. 67, 375.
- Ibn Nasr, the mathematician, i. 188.
- Ibn Romeylah (Abú-l-'abbás Al-kortobí), ii. 284, 288.
- Ibn Sáhíbi-s-salát, historian, i. 472.
- Ibn Sa'id, Wizír of Suleymán of Cordova, ii. 491.
- Ibn Sa'id, historian, i. 182.
- Ibn Sa'id Ibn Ibráhím Al-hamdání, poet, ii. 171.
- Ibn Sa'id Ibn Mohammed Ibn 'Abdillah Ibnu-l-fáyghadh, history of Spain written by, i. 194, 474.
- Ibn Sháhín Ash-sháhíní Effendí, engages Al-makkarí to compose his history of Spain, i. Pref. xxxii, 8; notice of, from the work of Amín Jelebí, 305, 306.
- Ibn Sho'ayb An-nisáyí, traditionist, i. 189, 192, 466.
- Ibn Sufyán Ibn 'Omayrah (Abú Bekr Al-makhzúmi), i. 31, 328, ii. 526.
- Ibn Suleymán Ibn Farkún, ii. 544.
- Ibn Suleymán Ibn Húd (Abú Ja'far), surnamed Al-muktadir-billah, King of Saragossa, i. 37, 127, 335, ii. 256; recovers Barbastro, 269.
- Ibn Tálib At-temímí, i. 178.
- Ibn Umeyyah Ibnu-l-kitt, revolts, ii. 456; besieges Zamora, 463; is defeated and put to death by Alfonso III. of Leon, ib.
- Ibnu-l-huseyn Ibn 'Alí Al-beyhaktí (Abú Bekr), i. 19, 317.
- Ibnu-l-huseyn Ibn Hasan Ibn 'Abdi-s-sammád Al-mutenabbí Al-kindí, poet, his poems commented upon, i. 185.
- Ibnu-l-huseyn Ibn Kasí (Abú-l-kásim), ii. 310, 518, App. xlix.
- Ibnu-l-huseyn (or hasan) Ibn Mohammed Al-warashán Al-makúdí, i. 340, 405.
- Ibnu-l-jezzár (Abú Ja'far), i. App. xxvi.
- Ibn Yahya Al-beládhori, geographer, his description of the earth, i. Pref. xxv, 381; what he says about Cordova, 499, 529.
- Ibn Yahya Al-yahssobí, Lord of Niebla, de-throned by Al-mu'tamed, ii. 507.
- Ibn Yahya Ibn Ahmed Ibn 'Omayrah Adh-dhobbá, historian, his biography of eminent Spanish Moslems, i. Pref. xix.
- Ahmed Ibn Yahya Ibn Mufarraj Al-kantúrí, ii. 473.
- Ibn Ya'la, general of Al-hakem II., invades Catalonia, ii. 159.
- Ibn Yúsuf Ibn Húd, surnamed Al-musta'in-billah, King of Saragossa, i. 128, 130, ii. 256, App. xxxvii, xliii; is killed in battle, xlv.
- Ibn Zeyád Al-khabíb, Kadí of Cordova, ii. 459.
- Ibn Ziryáb, ii. 432.
- Seyfu-d-daulah Al-muntaser Ibn Húd, ii. App. xlvi.
- Ahnaf, son of Kays, renowned for the meekness of his temper, i. 334.
- Ajdarians, sect of the, ii. 469.
- 'Ajemís, rising of the, ii. 442, 447; meaning of the word, 458.
- 'Ajma'u-l-bahrání, spot so called in Spain, i. 22, 320.
- 'Akbatu-l-bakar, battle of, ii. 227, 493, App. ix.
- Akhfash. See Al-akhfash.
- Akhíl Ibn Idrís, ii. App. l.
- 'Akír Ibn Mas'úd, poet, ii. 455.
- Akritis (Crete), island of, conquered by Cordovan exiles, i. 173, ii. 103.
- Aktáru-l-jauf, meaning of the expression, i. 322.
- Akútt, name of a castle in the province of Jaen, ii. 443.
- Akwál or Kawwál, a sort of flute made at Seville, i. 59, 366.
- 'Ala Ibn Mohammed Ibn Kháled Al-belátanísí, his collection of poems, i. 355.
- Ibn 'Othmán Ibn Khattáb, ii. 11.
- Al-abwáb (the gates), name given by the Arabs to the passes in the Pyrenees, i. 22, 31.
- Al-'abbás. See 'Abbás.
- , son of 'Omar, last King of Badajoz, is put to death, ii. 297.
- Ibnu-l-ahnaf, poet, i. 334.
- Ibnu-l-walíd, i. App. lxxxviii.
- Al-'ádhed, the Fátimite, ii. App. lxx.
- Al-'ádil. See Abú Mohammed.
- Al-aghar, promontory of, near Cadiz, i. 22; tower built on it, ib.
- Al-aghlab, mauli of Mujáhid, is appointed governor of Valencia, ii. 506.
- Al-ahdab (the hump-backed), a Christian count, makes an incursion into the Moslem territory, ii. App. lx; is defeated, ib.
- Al-ahnaf. See Adh-dhahhák 'Okayl.
- Al-ahwáz, a province of Persia, i. 18, 313; famous for its snakes, ib.
- Al-ajbál (island of), supposed to be Norway, i. 19, 317.

- Al-'akáb or Las Navas, battle of, lost by Mohammed An-násir, ii. 323, App. lxviii.
- Al-akhawín (the two sisters), name of palace or citadel built by Julius Cæsar at Seville, i. 55.
- Al-akhfash, grammarian, i. 185. See also Abú-l-hasan Sa'id, 'Abdu-l-hamíd Ibn 'Abdi-l-mejíd, and 'Alí Ibn Suleymán.
- Al-akra', ii. 441.
- Al-'ala Ibn Mughith Al-yahssobí, lands in Spain, ii. 80; proclaims the 'Abbásides, 81; is defeated and put to death, ib. and 422.
- Al-'ali-billah. See Idrís II.
- Al-'aliyá, a town of Syria, ii. 92.
- 'Alando, ii. 442.
- Al-ankar. See Mohammed Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán.
- Al-ardamelis (Sancho Ramirez I. of Aragon), takes Barbastro, ii. 265.
- Alark (Alarcos), battle of, ii. 321, App. lxxv.
- Al-arrozah, species of pear so called, growing at Valencia, i. 66, 373.
- Al-asbagh, son of 'Abdullah, revolt of, ii. 460.
- Al-'aselí, raisins so called, i. 88.
- Al-asha'rí. See 'Alí Ibn Isma'il.
- Al-asnád, mountain district near Granada, ii. 446.
- Al-assam, the Sheríf, of Cordova, poet, i. 490.
- Al-'assemí, author, ii. 201.
- Al-aswad, son of Al-mundhir, i. 331.
- Al-audi, a Berber chief of Sús-al-kssá, i. App. lxxviii.
- Al-ausatt. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán II.
- Al-auzá'ei. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn 'Amru.
- Alaya. See Ardh Alabah.
- Al-azdí. See Ahmed Ibn Ahmed.
- Al-'azízí, geographer, i. Pref. xxvi.
- Al-azrah, a species of pear so called, i. 374.
- Al-babúj, surname of Ferdinand II. of Leon, ii. App. lxxviii.
- Al-báji. See Abú-l-walíd, 'Abdu-l-malek, Ahmed Mohammed Ibn Ahmed, and Suleymán Ibn Khalf.
- Al-bakshandí, i. Pref. xxii.
- Al-bakúrí. See Al-yakúzí.
- Albalát. See Balát.
- Al-baráda'í or Al-barda'í. See Ahmed Ibn Hárún.
- Al-barakí, ii. 474.
- Al-barr, district of Seville, ii. 449.
- Ibn Málik Al-korayshí, Wizír of 'Abdullah, Sultán of Cordova, ii. 459.
- Albarracín. See Santa Maria.
- Al-barrádh, son of Kays Al-kenání, attacks of, meaning of this expression, i. 330. See also Al-hareth and Rafí'.
- Al-barda'í. See Ahmed Ibn Hárún.
- Al-barhánis (Alvar Yañez), a Christian general, helps Al-kádir to the conquest of Valencia, ii. App. xxxii, xxxv; invades Murcia, xxxix; is defeated, xlvi.
- Al-bashkans (the Basques), i. 22.
- Al-basrí. See Hasan Ibn Yesár and Mohammed Ibn Sa'id.
- Al-baydhá, the same as New Fez, i. 508.
- Al-bayesí. See Abú Mohammed.
- (Abú-l-hejáj), historian, his continuation of the Dhakhírah, i. 193, 471.
- Albayzin. See Rabadhu-l-báyisín.
- Al-báziyu-l-ash'ab (the grey hawk), a celebrated highwayman, near Seville, his adventure with Al-mu'tamed, king of that city, i. 106.
- Al-baylúní. See Mohammed Ibn Fat'h-illah.
- Al-bekrí. See 'Abdullah Ibn 'Abdi-l-'azíz.
- Albelda. See Al-beydhá.
- Al-beydhá (Albelda), battle fought at, ii. 435.
- Al-beyhakí. See Ahmed Ibnu-l-huseyn.
- Albeytin, King of Castile, supposed to be Don Sancho el Mayor, conquests of, ii. App. xxvi.
- Al-bíjât, sword-blades so called, from Bíjah or Pisa, i. 394.
- Al-bírah, the ancient Illiberis, i. 277, 280.
- Al-birah (Illora?), town, taken by Ferdinand, ii. 377.
- Al-birzáli. See Mohammed Ibn 'Abdillah.
- Al-bísání, i. App. xxxviii.
- Alboacen. See 'Alí.
- Al-bokhári. See Mohammed Ibn Isma'il.
- Al-bolúttí. See Mundhir Ibn Sa'id.
- Al-borájelah, mountain district near Granada, ii. 446; the scene of the Muwallad insurrection, 447, 515.
- Al-borj (the tower), suburb of, in Cordova, i. 206.
- Al-bort. See Jebál.
- Al-bostán (the garden), name given by the Arabs to the city of Murcia, i. 68.
- Albufera. See Al-buheyyrah.
- Al-buheyyrah (Albufera), a lake near Valencia, i. 67, 374, 379.
- Al-buheyratu-l-meytat, a lake in Galicia, i. 75.
- Al-búní. See Ahmed Ibn Abí-l-hasan.
- Al-búrakí, chief eunuch of Al-mansúr, i. 134.
- Al-busábisi, i. App. xxvi.
- Al-busherát, a mountainous district of Granada, corrupted into Alpuxarras, ii. 382, 515.
- Alcantara, a city of Western Spain, i. 61, 370.
- Al-kantaratu-s-seyf (the bridge of the sword), at Alcantara, described, i. 61.

- Alcarria, a province of Spain, why so called, i. 354.
 Alcózer. See Al-kosseyr.
 Alcazarejos. See Al-kosseyr.
 Alcira. See Jezirah-Shukar.
 Alcolea, town, i. 351.
 Alcoraza, battle of, ii. 505.
 Aleyr, district of, near Seville, ii. 449.
 Aleyt (Aledo), castle of, besieged by Yúsuf Ibn Táshefín, ii. 294, 511.
 'Alemah, meaning of the word, ii. 529.
 Al-fadhí, son of 'Omár, last King of Badajoz, is put to death by the Almoravides, ii. 297.
 Alfaharin, town, ii. 402.
 Al-fanah, town, besieged, ii. App. xxxix.
 Al-faneneyn, a castle in the province of Malaga, ii. 452.
 Al-faneteyn, castle of, ii. 454.
 Al-fár, i. App. vi.
 Al-farábí. See Mohammed Ibn Tarkhán.
 Al-faraj, town, ii. 306.
 Al-farej Ibn Kattánah, ii. 106.
 Al-farazdák. See Hamám Ibn Ghálib.
 Al-fat'h Al-mámún, son of Al-mu'tamed, is taken prisoner by the Almoravides, ii. 255, 297; beheaded, ib.
 Al-fat'h Ibn Mohammed Ibn 'Obeydillah Ibn Khákán
 Al-kaysí (Abú Nasr), poet and historian, i. Pref. xix, 38, 245, 478.
 — Ibn Músa Ibn Dhú-n-nún, Lord of Uclés, account of, ii. 441.
 Alfonso I. of Aragon. See Adefonsh Ibn Radmir.
 — I. of Asturias. See Adefonsh, son of Beytroh.
 — II. of Leon, defeated by Fortún Ibn Músa, ii. 114.
 — III. of Castile, surnamed As-soleytán, or the little Sultán, conquests of, ii. 311, 313; makes a truce with Ya'kúb, 320; is defeated at Alarcos, 321, App. lxi; gains the battle of Las Navas, 323, App. xlv, lxxviii.
 — III. of Leon, is defeated by Al-mundhir, ii. 127; gains a victory over Ahmed Ibn Umeyyah, 456; takes and fortifies Zamora, 462.
 — VI. of Leon, and I. of Castile, i. 125, 384; takes Toledo, ii. 262; obliges Al-mu'tamed to pay him tribute, 270; lays siege to Seville, 273; prepares to meet Yúsuf Ibn Táshefín, 274; has a dream, 281; is defeated and wounded at Zalákah, 287; dies of grief, 288, 510.
 — VIII. of Leon, II. of Castile, ii. App. xlii.
 — IX. of Leon, surnamed Ibnu-l-babúj, defeats Ibn Húd, ii. 329; takes Merida, ib.; is present at the battle of Alarcos, App. lxxv; and at that of Al-'akáb or Las Navas, lxxviii.
 Alfonso X. of Castile, i. 317, 320, 322; his interview with Abú Ya'kúb, ii. 344, 533; taking of Murcia by, 531.
 — XI. of Castile, account of his revenue, i. 402.
 — Enriquez (Ibn Errink), King of Portugal, defeated, ii. 315; conquests of, 522; taken prisoner, ib. and App. lviii.
 Algesiras. See Jeziratu-l-khadhrá.
 Al-gháfekí (Abú Ja'far), physician and botanist, i. 198, 481.
 — See 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn 'Abdillah.
 Al-ghálib-billah. See Mohammed Ibn Yúsuf.
 Al-gháliyah, castle in the province of Jaen, ii. 443.
 Al-ghani-billah. See Mohammed V.
 Al-ghár. See Taraf-al-ghár.
 Al-ghauth, i. 312.
 Al-ghaydék or Al-ghoydék (Alcaudete?), a town in the territory of Jaen, i. 353.
 Al-ghazálí. See Mohammed Ibn Mohammed.
 Al-ghází Ibn Is'hák Ibn Ghániyyah, ii. App. lxxiii.
 Al-ghazzál. See Yahya.
 Al-ghosání, i. 310.
 Al-habbún. See Yahya.
 Al-hadhramí (descendant of Hadhramaut), i. 140, 312.
 Al-hájiz (a line formed by mountains), name given to the Pyrenees, i. 20, 319.
 Al-hajjáj Ibn Khazrún or Khazerún, Lord of Ronda, ii. 230; put to death by Al-mu'tadhed, King of Seville, 497, 504.
 Al-hajjám. See Hasan.
 Al-hakem I. of Cordova, third of the Bení Umeyyah, surnamed Ar-rabadhí (he of the suburb) and Abú-l-'assin, i. 176; reign of, ii. 102—112.
 — II. of Cordova, ninth of the Bení Umeyyah, surnamed Al-mustanser-billah, i. 187, 400; reign of, ii. 156—174; library founded by, i. 139, ii. 169; state of Arabian literature under his reign, i. 418, ii. 170.
 — Ibn Sa'íd (Abú-l-'assin), Wizír of Hishám III. of Cordova, ii. 500.
 Al-hámah or Al-hammah (now Alhama la Seca), near Almeria, i. 389, ii. 447.
 Al-hammah (Alhama), town, i. 50; taking of, ii. 371.
 — town, taken by Al-mansúr, ii. 188.
 Al-hamrá (Alhambra), castle of, besieged, ii. 448.
 Al-handik, battle of, ii. 133—135.

- Al-hansh (Alhanje), castle of, in Estremadura, ii. 439.
 Al-hárah, battle of, ii. 43; why so called, 411.
 Al-haras, body-guard of Al-hakem I. called, ii. 106.
 Al-harawí, geographer, i. Pref. xxvi.
 Al-hareth Ibn Dhálim, i. 330.
 ——— Ibn Dáwús Al-ayadí Al-barrádh, i. 330.
 Al-háarith Ibn Yazígh, defeats Garcia, King of Navarre, ii. 431.
 ——— Ibn Yezíd, ii. 9.
 Al-hasan, son of Al-kásim Ibn Hammúd, ii. App. xii.
 ——— Al-laghúwí, ii. 405.
 ——— Ibn 'Alí, of the Zeyrites of Africa, ii. 520.
 ——— Ibn Ahmed Ibn Mufarraġ, i. 458.
 ——— Ibn Al-kásim Ibn Kannún, the Idrísite, visits Spain, ii. 145, 466, 477; succeeds his brother Abú-l-'aysh on the throne, 166; is taken prisoner and conveyed to Cordova, 167; again taken, and put to death, 189.
 ——— Ibn Is'hák Ibn Ghániyyah, ii. App. lxiii.
 ——— Ibn Mohammed (Abú Bekr) Ibn Mufarraġ, his history of Mohammedan Spain, ii. 474.
 ——— Ibn Rashík Al-kairwání, historian, i. 99, 395.
 ——— Ibnu-l-huseyn Al-is'hákí, i. Pref. xx.
 Al-haufí, his commentary on the work of Al-kesáyí, i. 185.
 Al-haytham Ibn 'Obeyd Al-kelábí, governor, administration of, ii. 36.
 ——— Ibn Ahmed Ibn Ghálib (Abú-l-mutawakkel), i. 145.
 Al-házemí, ii. 29.
 Al-hejáj Ibn Yúsuf, i. App. liii, lxxxv; ii. 34.
 Al-hijári. See 'Abdullah Ibn Ibráhim and Abú Umeyyah.
 Al-hobáb Az-zohrí, rises against Yúsuf, ii. 55; is put to death, ib. and 66.
 Al-hodġ, i. 480.
 Al-hojáf Ibn Hakím, i. 330.
 Al-hojjám. See Hasan.
 Al-homaydí. See Mohammed Ibn Abí Nasr.
 Al-horr Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán Ath-thakefí, governor of Spain under the Khalifs, ii. 23; administration of, ii. 32, 260.
 Al-hosrí. See Ibráhim.
 Al-hossayn Ibnu-d-dajen Al-'okaylí, ii. 71.
 Al-huseyn Ibn 'Abdillah Ibn Síná, vulgo Avicenna, physician, i. App. xv.
 ——— Ibn Ahmed Ibnu-l-huseyn Ibn Hayyí Attojibí, astronomer and geometrician, i. 150, 430.
 'Alí, son of Bedru-d-dín, ii. 363.
 — (Abú-l-hasan), sixth of the Bení Merín, i. 224, 498; crosses over to Spain, ii. 354; repairs the fortifications of Gibraltar, 355; loses the battle of Tarifa, 356; history of his reign written by Ibn Marzúk, 537.
 'Alí Al-kijáttí (Abú-l-huseyn), ii. 539.
 — An-nakkás Al-baghdádí, poet, ii. 190.
 — Ibn 'Abdi-l-'azíz, mathematician, i. 149.
 — Ibn 'Abdi-l-'azíz (Abú-l-hasan Ibnu-l-imám), i. App. xiii, xv.
 — Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán Ibn Ahmed (Abú Sa'id Ibn Yúnas), historian of Egypt, ii. 3, 396, 474.
 — Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán Ibn Hudheyl, extracts from his work on the art of war, i. 128, 129.
 — Ibn Abí-l-halyi-l-kenání (Abú-l-hasan), i. 143, 421.
 — Ibn Ahmed Ibn Jenbúládh, revolt of, i. 306.
 — Ibn Ahmed Ibn Sa'id Ibn Hazm Adh-dháherí (Abú Mohammed), i. 37, 147, ii. 169; account of his life and writings, i. 334; his answer to Ibnu-r-rabíb's epistle, 171—190; time at which it was written, 468.
 — Ibn Ahmed Ibnu-l-huseyn, i. Pref. xxviii.
 — Ibn Ar-robertín, ii. App. lxiii.
 — Ibn Besám or Bessám (Abú-l-hasan), historian, his Dhakhírah or hoarded treasure, i. Pref. xxi, 38, 193, 370, 471; quoted, ii. 177, 264; notice of that work, 513.
 — Ibn Dháfer Al-azdí (Jemálu-d-dín Abú-l-hasan), ii. 482.
 — Ibn Ghániyyah, the Almoravide, ii. 524.
 — Ibn Hammúd, the Idrísite, founder of the dynasty of the Bení Hammúd, i. 333, 396; revolts against Suleymán, ii. 230; defeats him and puts him to death, 231; is assassinated, 233.
 — Ibn 'Isa Ibn Maymún, rises at Cadiz, ii. 310, 517; embraces the party of the Almohades, App. xlix; pulls down the tower of Hercules, i. 79, 360, 378, 382, ii. 517.
 — Ibn Is'hák Ibn Ghániyyah, King of Mallorca, ii. App. lxiii.
 — Ibn Isma'íl Al-asha'rí or Al-isha'rí (Abú-l-hasan), founder of the sect of the Asha'ris, i. 301.
 — Ibn Isma'íl Ibnu-s-sídah (Abú-l-hasan), i. 37, 146, 335; account of his life and writings, 422, 423.
 — Ibn Ja'far, architect of 'Abdu-r-rahmán III. of Cordova, i. 235.
 — Ibn Ja'far Abú-l-kásim Ibnu-l-katá' As-sa'dí, poet, works written by, ii. 300, 513.
 — Ibn Khalaf, astronomer and mathematician, i. 385.

- 'Alí Ibn Mes'úd, i. 247.
- Ibn Mohammed Al-korayshí Al-'abbásí, poet, ii. 190.
- Ibn Mohammed Ibn Abí-l-hasan (Abú-l-hasan), i. 185.
- Ibn Mohammed Ibn Ahmed Ibn 'Omar Ibn Abí Zara' Al-fásí (Abú 'Abdillah), historian, proved not to be the real author of the Karttás, ii. 516.
- Ibn Mohammed Ibn 'Alí As-solayhí (Abú-l-hasan), i. 150; his revolt in Yemen, 430; his death, ib.
- Ibn Mohammed Ibn Ghániyyah, ii. App. lxiii.
- Ibn Mohammed Ibn Sáhíbi-s-salát, ii. 519.
- Ibn Mujáhid Ikbálu-d-daulah, succeeds his father in the kingdom of Denia, ii. 258; is dethroned by his father-in-law Al-muktadir Ibn Húd, 507.
- Ibn Músa Ibn 'Alí Ibn Mohammed Ibn Khalf (Abú-l-hasan Al-ansárí), i. 185.
- Ibn Músa Ibn Mohammed Ibn 'Abdi-l-málik (Núru-d-dín Abú-l-hasan Ibn Sa'id), historian, his life and writings, i. 309; his continuation of the history of Mohammedan Spain, 196, 204, 407; extracts from, 21, 84, 86, 95, 116, 122, 139, 142, 146; his addition to Ibn Hazm's epistle, 191—200.
- Ibn Náfi' (Abú-l-hasan), surnamed Zaryáb or Ziryáb, a celebrated musician, goes to Spain, i. 121, 410; is kindly received by 'Abdu-r-rahmán II. of Cordova, ii. 116; improves the lute, 118; introduces many customs from the East, 119.
- Ibn Rabáh Al-lakhmí, one of the conquerors of Spain, i. 356, 536; builds the castle of Calatrava, App. lxiv, lxxii; ii. 5.
- Ibn Sa'd Abú-l-hasan or Alboacen, King of Granada, ii. 369; orders the execution of the Bení Serráj, 370; is dethroned by his son Mohammed, 373.
- Ibn Suleymán Al-akhfash, grammarian, i. 461.
- Ibn Suleymán Az-zahráwí (from Medínat Az-zahrá) Abú Is'hák and Abú-l-hasan, a celebrated physician, i. 150, 428.
- Ibn Wá'ah, ii. 493.
- Ibnu-l-háj, the Almoravide, marches against Henry of Besançon, ii. App. xliii.
- Ibnu-l-himárah (Abú-l-huseyn), Wizír and poet, i. 386.
- Ibnu-l-huseyn Al-korayshí (Abú-l-faraj Al-ísbáhaní), his collection of Arabian songs, i. 480; by whom abridged, 198, ii. 160, 169.
- Ibnu-l-huseyn Al-mes'údí (Abú-l-hasan), a celebrated Eastern historian, his 'Golden Meadows,' i. Pref. xxiii; his description of Spain, 20; what he says of the tower of Hercules at Cadiz, 79; work attributed to, 473.
- 'Alí Ibnu-l-kattán Al-kortobí (Abú-l-hasan), his works on traditions, i. 192, 469.
- Ibnu-l-mámún Abí-l-'ala, surnamed Al-mu'tadhed 'alai-llah and As-sa'id, twelfth Sultán of Western Africa of the dynasty of the Almohades, i. 223, 497, ii. 325.
- Ibn Yahya Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán Al-makkarí, i. 302.
- Ibn Yahya Ibn Ghániyyah Al-masúfí, the Almoravide, ii. App. lxiii.
- Ibn Yúsuf, second of the Almoravides, reign of, ii. 300—307.
- Ibn Yúsuf Ibn Húd, succeeds his brother Almutawakkel in the kingdom of Murcia, ii. 530; is put to death by Abú Jemíl, ib.
- Ibn Yúsuf Ibn Komáshah Al-hosrí, Wizír of Mohammed V. of Granada, ii. 362.
- Ibn Yúsuf Ibn Táshefín Al-masúfí II. (Abú-l-hasan), Sultán of the Almoravides, i. 84, 489; reign of, ii. 308.
- Alinkítar, name given by the Arabs to Richard I. of England, i. 316.
- 'Al'liyah (Oliás?), town near Almeria, ii. 447.
- 'Aliyyah, daughter of Ziryáb, the musician, ii. 432.
- Al-ifshín. See Mohammed Ibn 'A'ssim.
- Al-inkilterrah (England), i. 19; also called Jezírah Birtániyyah (the island of Britain) and Ardh Birtaniyya-l-kebírah (the land of Great Britain), i. 19; short description of, 316.
- Al-isha'rí. See 'Alí Ibn Isma'il.
- Al-jáhedh. See 'Amru Ibn Bahr.
- Al-jakmakí, college at Damascus, i. 306.
- Al-jaliánt*, sort of apple so called, i. 46.
- Al-jazúfí. See Abú Músa.
- Al-jauf, name given by the Arabs to the north-western provinces of Spain, i. 23, 322; ii. App. lxv.
- Al-jerá'í. See Isma'il.
- Al-jezírah (the island), name given to Spain, why, i. 19.
- Al-jodrát, palace of, in Cordova, ii. 248.
- Al-jorjání, dresses so called manufactured at Almeria, i. 51.
- Al-júzí. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn 'Alí.
- Al-kabdhák, town, besieged by Mohammed II. of Granada, ii. 346.

- Al-kádir. See Yahya II. of Toledo.
 Al-kádirí, i. Pref. xvii.
 Al-kahl, gate of, in the city of Mallorca, ii. 331.
 Al-kafáll, i. 189. See also Mohammed Ibn 'Alí and Yúsup Ibn 'Alí.
 Al-kalafatt, poet, his enmity to Ibn 'Abdi-r-rabihi, ii. 445.
 Al-kal'ah (Alcalá de Guadaira), near Seville, rebuilt by the Almohades, ii. App. lx.
 ——— En-nahr (Alcalá de Henares), i. 534.
 Al-kálí. See Isma'íl.
 Al-kalkashandí. See Ahmed Ibn 'Abdillah.
 'Alkamah Al-lakhmí, revolts at Sidonia, ii. 422.
 ——— (Alxaman), defeated by Pelayo, ii. 407.
 Al-kameneyn, a castle of the province of Elvira, ii. 446.
 Al-kamet, the poet, ii. 93.
 Al-kanbittúr. See Rudherik.
 Al-kanítt, castle of, taken, ii. 457.
 Al-kantúrí. See Ahmed Ibn Yahya.
 Al-karábí, i. App. xix.
 Al-kartam (carthamus cæruleus), name given by the Arabs to the territory round Albarracin, i. 378.
 Al-karttás. See Zeyrí Ibn 'Atiyah.
 Al-kasawí. See Mohammed Ibn Lob.
 Al-kashí, a celebrated brigand, helps to the accession of Al-mutawakkel Ibn Húd, ii. 327.
 Al-kásim, son of 'Abdullah, Sultán of Cordova, revolts against his father, ii. 460.
 ——— Ibn Hammúd, Sultán of Cordova, surnamed Al-mámún, i. 396; succeeds his brother 'Alí, ii. 234; is dethroned by his nephew Yahya, 238; regains possession of Cordova, 239; is taken prisoner and put to death, 241.
 ——— Ibn Mohammed, ii. 109.
 ——— Ibn Mohammed, surnamed Al-wáthik-billah, King of Algesiras, dethroned by Al-mu'tadhed, ii. 247.
 ——— Ibn Mohammed, of the family of Umeyyah, is put to death by his brother's orders, ii. 461.
 ———, surnamed Kanún or Janún, the Idrísíte, ii. 145, 166.
 Al-kasr (Alcazar), town, ii. 305, App. l.
 Al-kasmítaní, historian, i. 404, ii. 537.
 Al-kasttálí. See Mohammed Ibn Ahmed.
 Al-káyim-biamri-llah, twenty-sixth Khalif of the house of 'Abbás, i. 150.
 Al-kaysí, ii. 11.
 Al-kesáyí, his work commented upon, i. 185.
 Al-khabíb. See Ahmed Ibn Zeyád.
 Al-khábiyah (Alhabia), near Almeria, ii. 447.
 Al-khadhr or Al-khidhr, the same as Elias or St. George, appears to Ishbán, i. 25, 537.
 Al-khali' or Khali' At-tekerání, a Muwallad chief, surprises Estepa, ii. 447; deserts the cause of the Muwallads, 456.
 Al-khálidat (the Canary Islands), description of, i. 72, 378: beacons on them by whom erected, ib.
 Al-khallál, i. 189, 467.
 Al-khalatt, tribe, ii. App. lxxiii.
 Al-khalwatí, i. Pref. xvii.
 Al-khattíb Al-baghdádí. See Ahmed Ibn 'Alí.
 Al-khidr, Wizir of Ishkander, i. 323.
 Al-khorj Al-mursí, i. 480.
 Al-khoshaní. See Al-khoshní.
 Al-khoshní. See Mohammed Ibn Hárith and Mohammed Ibn 'Abdi-s-sellám.
 Al-khaulání. See Abú Idrís.
 Al-khazení. See Ahmed Ibn Khattáb.
 Al-khazrejí. See 'Abdullah Ibn Mohammed and Abú Ja'far Ibn 'Abdi-l-hakk.
 Al-khozeyní, i. 253, 255.
 Al-komjittah (Constanza), wife of Alfonso VI. of Leon, extraordinary pretension of, ii. 270.
 Al-korashí Al-harrání, revolt of, ii. 493.
 Al-kosseyr (Alcozer or Alcazarejos), near Cordova, i. 42, 205, 345, 484.
 Al-kusheyrí, ii. 129.
 Al-kúttí, fig so called, i. 58, 87, 364.
 Al-laghún (Alagon), town, ii. 306.
 Al-leyth Ibn Sa'íd or Sa'd, i. 251, App. lxxiv; ii. 7, 397.
 Al-mafssass, a sort of tile manufactured in Spain, i. 93.
 Al-mahdí. See Mohammed Ibn Tiumarta.
 Al-mahdúd. See 'Abdu-l-'azíz Ibnu-l-khattíb.
 Almajuzes. See Majus.
 Al-makhzúmí. See Abú Bekr, Ahmed Ibn 'Abdillah, Ahmed Ibn Sufyán, and Ahmed Ibn Mohammed.
 Al-makkarí. See Abú Bekr Ibn Yahya, 'Abdu-rahmán Ibn Abí Bekr, 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn Yahya, Ahmed Ibn Ahmed, 'Alí Ibn Yahya, Mohammed Ibn Mohammed, and Yahya Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán.
 Al-makúwí. See Ahmed Ibn 'Abdi-l-málik.
 Al-malehí. See 'Omar Ibn Modhám.
 Al-mámún. See Al-fat'h, Al-kásim Ibn Hammúd, Idrís Abú-l-'ala, and Yahya I. of Toledo.
 Al-mandhar, town, taken by Mohammed III. of Granada, ii. 346.
 Al-mansaf (Almansa), town, i. 68.

- Al-mansúr. See Abú Ja'far, Mohammed Ibn Abí 'A'mir, and Ya'kúb.
 ——— Ibn Is'hák Ibn Ghániyyah, ii. App. lxiii.
 Al-mansúrah (Almanzora), valley of, ii. 305.
 Al-marázî, i. 247.
 Al-masdúm. See Abú-l-huseyn Ibn Asdún.
 Al-mateytí, i. 248.
 Al-mattarí. See Sa'íd Al-yahssobí.
 Almatto, grandson of Wittiza, ii. 415.
 Al-mayúrkí. See Yahya Ibn Is'hák Ibn Ghániyyah.
 Al-medaní, i. 189.
 Al-meriyah (Almeria), city, described, i. 50—52; its dockyard, 358; manufactures, 51; trade, 93; histories of, 358, 359; kingdom of, by whom founded, ii. 257; city taken by Alfonso II., 311; recovered by the Almohades, 313; finally reduced by Ferdinand V. of Aragon, 387.
 Al-merj, town, ii. 515.
 Al-mes'údí. See 'Alí Ibn Huseyn.
 Al-minkálah, a métronome, by whom invented, i. 148, 426.
 Al-mityábu-l-andalus (the scent-bottle of Andalus), name given to Valencia, i. 67.
 Almodovar. See Hisnu-l-mudowwar.
 Almogávares, meaning of the word, ii. App. lxxx.
 Al-moghámí, Sheikh, anecdote of, ii. 264.
 Al-mohr. See Ibnu-l-faras.
 Almond (Olmundo), son of Wittiza, i. 513, ii. 415.
 Almonides. See Majús.
 Almoravides, history of the, by Ibn Sáhibi-s-salát, i. 193, 472; conquest of Spain by the, ii. 294, 300.
 Almozudes. See Majús.
 Al-mudhaffer. See Al-modhaffer.
 Al-mugheyrah, son of Al-hakem I., ii. 113.
 ———, son of 'Abdu-r-rahmán III., put to death by Al-mansúr, ii. 175, 177.
 ——— Ibn Abí Burdah, i. App. lxi, lxii; ii. 6.
 ——— Ibn Al-walíd, ii. 76; revolts against 'Abdu-r-rahmán I., 83; is put to death, ib.
 Al-muhandas. See Táhir Ibn Mohammed.
 Al-muhdí-billah. See Mohammed II. of Cordova.
 Al-mu'izz, son of Zeyrí, succeeds his father, ii. 192; sends an embassy to Cordova, 222. See also Mu'izz.
 Al-mujassemún or Corporalists, name given to the Almoravides by their enemies the Almohades, ii. 521.
 Al-muktadir, eighteenth Khalif of the house of 'Abbás, assassination of, ii. 147. See also Ahmed Ibn Húd.
 Al-mulabbad, sort of warm clothing manufactured at Granada and Baza, i. 93, 392.
 Al-mulaththamún (wearers of the veil called latham), name given to the Almoravides, i. 386.
 Al-munadí. See Is'hák Ibn Isma'il.
 Al-mundhir. See Mundhir.
 ———, sixth of the Bení Umeyyah, i. 137; his addition to the mosque, 219; his wars with the Christians, ii. 127, 128; his reign, 129; he is killed in battle, 131, 437.
 ———, brother of Al-hakem I., enters into a conspiracy to dethrone him, ii. 427.
 ———, son of 'Abdu-r-rahmán III., ii. 141.
 ——— Ibn Ahmed Ibn Húd At-tojibí, (Lord of Lerida), ii. App. xxxvii.
 ——— Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán Ibn Al-hakem, of the family of Umeyyah, is sent against the Muwallads, ii. 447—449.
 ——— Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán Ibn 'Abdillah, of the family of Umeyyah, poet, ii. 445.
 ——— Ibn Yahya Ibn Huseyn At-tojibí, governor of Saragossa, declares himself independent, ii. 255, 504.
 Al-munékab (Almuñecar), a sea-port town on the coast of Granada, i. 46; the place of disembarkation of 'Abdu-r-rahmán Adh-dhákhel, ii. 66.
 Al-muneydhir or Al-muneyzir, one of the companions of the Prophet, i. 536, ii. 2.
 Al-múnis, pavilion called, at Az-zahrá, i. 236.
 Al-mudhfer. See 'Abdu-l-malek Ibn Abí 'A'mir and 'Abdu-l-malek Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán.
 Al-muntaser. See Ahmed Seyfu-d-daulah.
 Al-mursí, pomegranate so called, i. 50.
 Al-murtadhi. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán IV. of Cordova and 'Omar Ibn Abí Ibráhím.
 Al-murtadín, sect of the, ii. 518.
 Al-mus'hafí. See Ja'far.
 Al-mus'hafíyyah, a villa built by Ja'far Al-mus'hafí, i. 212, 489, ii. 183.
 Al-mussárah, name of a garden near Guadix, ii. 361.
 Al-mustadh'her. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán V. of Cordova.
 Al-musta'in-billah. See Ahmed Ibn Yúsuf and Suleymán Ibn Ahmed.
 Al-mustakfi-billah. See Mohammed III. of Cordova.
 Al-must'ali-billah. See Mohammed II. of Malaga.
 Al-mustanser Al-'abbási, thirty-sixth Khalif of the house of 'Abbás, ii. 327.
 Al-mustanser-billah. See Abú 'Abdillah, Al-hakem II., and Yúsuf II.
 Al-mu'tadd-billah. See Hishám III. of Cordova.

- Al-mu'tadhed-billah, sixteenth Khalif of the house of 'Abbás, i. Pref. xxv. See also 'Abbád.
- Al-mu'tali. See Yahya Ibn Hammúd.
- Al-mu'tamed-billah. See Mohammed Ibn 'Abbád.
- Al-mutamen. See Yúsuf Ibn Húd.
- Al-mu'tassem-billah. See Mohammed Ibn Al-kásim and Mohammed Ibn Samádeh.
- Al-mutawakkel, tenth Khalif of the house of 'Abbás, i. App. xxiv.
- Al-mutawakkel 'ala-illah. See Mohammed Ibn Yúsuf.
- Al-mutayyed-billah. See Idrís I. of Malaga.
- Al-mutenabbí. See Ahmed Ibnu-l-huseyn Ibn Hasan. — Jezrah-shukar. See Abú Tálib.
- Al-mutref, son of 'Abdullah, Sultán of Cordova, marches against the Muwallads and defeats them, ii. 450; puts his brother Mohammed to death, 133, 460; orders the execution of Ibn Umeyyah, 454, 461.
- Al-muwaffek, King of Denia, ii. 511.
- Al-muwaffek-billah. See Idrís III.
- Al-muwahhedún (Almohades), dynasty of the, origin of, ii. 300; Spain conquered by the, 310.
- Al-muyyed or Al-muyyed-billah. See Hishám II. and Abú Músa (Síd).
- Al-'ommád Al-isfahání, i. App. xxxviii.
- Alpuxarras. See Al-busherát.
- Al-urdán, a district of Malaga, why so called, i. 210, 356, 488, ii. 46.
- Al-wadhhdháh Ibn Shahíd, poet, ii. 190.
- Al-wahíbí, rebel, takes possession of Niebla, ii. App. liii.
- Al-walíd, son of Al-hakem I., is sent against Toledo; takes it by storm, ii. 428.
- Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek, sixth Khalif of the Beni Umeyyah in the East, his message to Músa, i. 291; his reception of that general, 299; mosque of Damascus built by, 305, 494.
- Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán Ibn Ghánim, Wizír, i. 132.
- Ibn Mu'awiyah, ii. 76; is exiled to Africa, 83.
- Ibn Suleymán, of the family of Umeyyah, ii. App. xi.
- Ibn Yezíd, of the family of Umeyyah, ii. 61.
- Al-warrák. See Mohammed Ibn Yúsuf and Ya'ísh Ibn Sa'íd.
- Al-washiu-thalathát, sort of silken cloth manufactured at Murcia, i. 69, 377.
- Al-watás, dynasty, ii. 543.
- Al-wáthik-billah. See Abú Bekr Ibn Húd, Al-kásim Ibn Mohammed, and Idrís II. of Malaga.
- Al-yábisah, i. App. xxvi.
- Al-yaferaní. See Ibn 'Ittáf.
- 'Alyár, a spot near Almodovar, ii. 429.
- Al-yacótí, pomegranate so called, i. 50.
- Al-yakúrí. See Al-yakúzí.
- Al-yakúzí. See Mohammed Ibn Ibráhím.
- Alyasa' Ibn 'Isa Ibn Hazm Ibn 'Abdillah Ibn Alisa Al-gháfekí, historian, i. 20, 318.
- Alyasánah or Al-isánah, town of Andalusia, peopled by Jews, ii. 452.
- Al-yásenah (Lucena), city, i. 42, 205, 345, 485.
- Alxaman. See 'Alkamah.
- 'Amalekites ('Amlakah), name given to the Phœnicians by the Arabian historians, i. 203, 484.
- Amaya, town, i. 534, 536.
- Ambar, fisheries of, on the western coast of Spain, i. 61.
- 'Amíl Ibn Muhíb, Lord of Talavera or Tavira, ii. App. liii.
- Amín Jelebí, his biography of illustrious men who flourished at Damascus in the eleventh century of the Hijra, extracts from, i. Pref. xxxi.
- 'Amir Ibn Khalf, of Saragossa, i. 183.
- Al-'abdári, rebellion of, ii. 54; death, 66.
- Ibn Fatúh Al-fáyikí, governor of Malaga, surrenders that city to 'Alí Ibn Hammúd, ii. App. x.
- Ibn Hariz Ibn Hábil, rebellion of, ii. 444.
- Ibn Mu'awiyah Az-zeyádí Al-lakhmí (Abú Mu'awiyah), Kádí of Cordova, ii. 459.
- Amírah, wife of Al-kásim Ibn Hammúd, ii. App. xiii.
- Amírs or governors of Spain under the Khalifs, chronology of the, ii. 55, 405, App. iv.
- Amíru-l-moslemín (Commander of the Moslems), title assumed by the Almoravide Sultáns of Spain, i. 386.
- 'Ammár Ibn Hassín, i. 176.
- Ibn Yásir, ii. 18, 399.
- Ibn Zeyád, i. App. lxxxviii.
- 'Amr Ibn Mohammed Ibn 'Amr Ibn 'Abdillah Al-azdí Al-ishbílí Shalúbín or Shalúbíní, grammarian, his life translated from As-safadí, i. 479.
- 'Amru, a slave of 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn Mu'awiyah, accompanies him on his flight, ii. 61.
- Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek, i. 331.
- Ibn Bahr Al-jáhedh, theologian, i. 334, 468.
- Ibn Faraj, poet, ii. 446.
- Ibn Sa'íd Al-korayshí, governor of Niebla, murdered, ii. 448.

- 'Amru Ibn Kolthúm or Kolshúm, poet, i. 190, 330, 331, 469.
- Ibn 'Othmán Al-farisí or Al-fáresí (Abú Bashar), surnamed Sibawayeh, grammarian, i. 142, 419.
- Ibn Múmelah Al-yahssobí, ii. App. iii.
- Ibn Sa'íd [Sa'd] Ibní-l-'áss, i. 331.
- Ibn Tálút, governor of Beja, rebellion of, ii. 84.
- Ibnu-l-'áss, conqueror of Egypt, i. 176, App. xxxiv; ii. 9.
- Ibn Yezíd Al-azrak, his revolt, ii. 55.
- 'Amru-l-kays, poet, verses by, ii. 96.
- Amukrán, a Berber word meaning chief, i. 302.
- 'Anábí ('Atábí?), dresses manufactured at Almeria, i. 51, 358.
- 'Anbar, eunuch of Hishám II. of Cordova, ii. 494.
- 'Anbasah Ibn Soheym Al-kelbí, governor of Spain under the Khalifs, i. 490; administration of, ii. 33, 260; his death, 407.
- Anceo, river, battle fought on its banks, ii. 429.
- Andalosh (Vandals), give their name to Andalus (Spain), i. 17, 312.
- Andalus, son of Túbál, peoples Spain and gives it his name, i. 17.
- (Spain), etymology of the word, i. 17, 322; climate of, ib.; geographical position, 18; dimensions, 20; shape, 21; ancient divisions, 22; settlers in, 23; Central, 30; Western, 55; Eastern, 64; islands dependent on, 71; ruins and ancient remains of, 77; population, 84; productions of the soil, 87; mines, 89; precious stones, 90; marbles, 91; animals, ib.; trade and manufactures, 93; revenue, 111, 400; taxes, 110, 213, 401, ii. 131, 212; government, i. 95; conquest of, 250—300.
- Andalusians, or Spanish Moslems, religion of the, i. 112; sects followed by, 113; monastic institutions, 405; costume, 116; weapons, 117, 408; eminent qualities, 117; skill as workmen, 118; character of, 121; hospitality, ib.; courage, 123; haughtiness of temper, 130; devotion to their friends, 132; justice, 133; forgiveness, 136; generosity, 137; education, 140; language, 142; hand-writing, 143, 420; memory, 144; passion for books, 140; wit, 143; talent for poetry, 151.
- Andarax, river, i. 360; also a town in the Alpuxarras, taken by Abú 'Abdillah, ii. 385.
- Anfa, a port of Western Africa, i. 79, 382.
- Anisah (now Puig de Cebolla), castle on the coast of Valencia, by whom built, ii. App. lxxvi.
- 'Ankadid Ibn Al-mundhir, a Catalonian count, defeated and killed, ii. 455.
- An-nadhr. See Nadhr.
- Ibn Salámah Al-kaysí, ii. 459.
- An-nadhrāh, castle in the province of Jaen, ii. 443.
- An-nahelí Al-bathaliósí, poet, i. 136.
- An-najaghí, i. 223, 498.
- An-najárí. See Músa Al-masmúdí.
- An-nássir, son of Al-mustadhí, thirty-fourth Khalif of the house of 'Abbás, library collected by, ii. 169, destroyed, 473.
- lidín-illah. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán III. of Cordova.
- Ibn 'Alnás, Sultán of Eastern Africa, ii. App. xxxix, xli.
- An-na'úrah. See Mun'yat.
- An-nisáyí. See Ahmed Ibn Sho'ayb.
- An-no'mán Ibn Al-mundhir, King of Hírah, in Arabia, i. 330, ii. 27, 418.
- Ibn Thábit Abú Hanífab, theologian, sect founded by, i. 305, ii. 123.
- 'Ans, family of, ii. 27.
- Ans Ibn Málík (Abú Hamzah), tradition preserved by, i. 173, 176.
- Ansár, tribe of the, ii. 25.
- 'Antarah Ibn Faláh, Kádí of Cordova, ii. 423.
- An-nuwayrí. See Ahmed Ibn 'Abdi-l-wahháb.
- Antikeyrāh (Antequera), town, ii. 348.
- Aranbasah, town of, in the Al-gharb, ii. 450.
- Ardebasto. See Artabás.
- Ardh Alabah, or the land of Alava, invaded, ii. 99, 127, 135, 425.
- Ardhu-l-bashkans (land of the Basques), collective name for Navarre and Biscay, i. 545.
- Ardhu-l-faranj (land of the Franks) name given by the Arabs to Catalonia, i. 545.
- Ardhu-l-jalaskah (land of the Galicians), or Asturias and Galicia, i. 545.
- Ardhu-l-kebírah (or great land), collective name given by the Arabs to the countries beyond the Pyrenees, i. 76, 545; history of, 204; invasions of, ii. 99.
- Ardhu-l-kilá' (the land of the castles), name given to Castile (Castella) by the Arabs, i. 316; ravaged, ii. 127; invaded, 425.
- 'Arfajah Ibn Harthamah Al-azdí, i. App. xxxiv.
- Arfand, a Christian captain, ii. 535.
- Argantonio, a fabulous King of Spain, i. 379.
- Ariúnah. See Narbonne.

- Ariza, a town of Aragon, taken by Alfonso I., ii. 514.
- Arjúnah (Arjona), town, i. 102, 397, ii. 328, 342, 345.
- Arkádah, called also Rokádah, a town of Africa, ii. 178.
- Arkosh (Los Arcos), town, ii. 300.
- Arkúb, i. 332.
- Arles, a town close to Cordova, i. 345.
- Armanghíd (Armengaud), Count of Urgel, joins Suleymán with his forces, ii. 492; is killed in battle, 493.
- Armanius (Romanus), Emperor of Constantinople, i. App. xxiv; sends a present of Greek manuscripts to 'Abdu-r-rahmán III. of Cordova, ib.
- Armengaud, Count of Urgel, killed at the siege of Barbastro, ii. 508.
- of Urgel. See Armanghíd.
- Armetas, son of Constantine, retakes the island of Crete, ii. 427.
- Armóur, steel, made at Murcia, i. 93; used by the Spanish Moslems, 94.
- Ar-rabadhí, surname given to Al-hakem I. of Cordova, i. 400.
- Ar-radhí. See Yezíd.
- , son of Mujabbir, King of Ceuta, i. 541.
- Ar-rá'í. See Mohammed Ibn Isma'íl.
- Ar-rakík. See Ibráhím.
- Ar-rasán, execution of, ii. 490.
- Ar-rashíd. See 'Abdu-l-wáhed II.
- , son of Al-mu'tamed of Seville, ii. 255.
- Ar-raudhah, a cemetery in the outskirts of Cordova, ii. 439.
- Ar-rayáhir, district of, invaded, ii. App. xlv.
- Arrayate, a town in the neighbourhood of Malaga, i. 356.
- Ar-ráyí, figs called, exported to Baghdád, India, and China, i. 48, 49.
- Ar-rázi. See Ahmed Ibn, Mohammed, 'Isa Ibn Ahmed, and Mohammed Ibn Zakariyyá.
- Ar-riyádhí. See Ibráhím Ibn Ahmed.
- Ar-ro'ayní, i. 44, 424. See also Abú-l-kásim Feyroh and Ibn Málík.
- Ar-rondí. See 'Alí Ibn Mohammed, 'Isa Ibn Suleymán, and 'Omar Ibn 'Abdi-l-mejíd.
- Ar-rusháttí. See Abú Mohammed Ibn 'Alí.
- Arshidúnah (Archidona), near Malaga, i. 356, ii. 350, 438, 452.
- Artabás (Ardebasto), son of Wittiza, i. 513, ii. 50, 415.
- Artillery, used by the Arabs of Spain, ii. 303, 513, 535.
- Artiyún Hawájah, name given by the Arabs to Gregorius, the Greek governor of Africa, i. 539.
- 'Arwah, a tribe of Bérbers subdued by Músa Ibn Nosseyr, i. App. lvii.
- Asad Ibnu-l-forát, the conqueror of Sicily, i. 174, App. xxxv.
- Asbagh Ibn Foteys, ii. 459.
- Ibn Khalíl, ii. 149, 493.
- Ibn Mohammed Ibnu-s-samh or samah (Abú-l-kásim), geometrician and astronomer, i. 149; works written by, 188, 428.
- As'hábu-s-safá (the sincere friends), a society of authors so called, philosophical treatises published by, i. 150; when and by whom introduced into Spain, ib.
- Ash'ar, tribe of, i. 301.
- Asharaf (Axarafe), a district near Seville, description of the, i. 55, 58; meaning of the word, 363.
- Ash-shajjár. See Mohammed.
- Ash-shakandí. See Isma'íl Ibn Mohammed.
- Ash-shakkál, gate of, in Cordova, ii. 487.
- Ash-shalúbíní. See 'Amr Ibn Mohammed.
- Ash-sha'rí, figs called, i. 58, 365, 87.
- Ash-shátibí. See Mohammed.
- Ashed, town, ii. 502.
- Asher, town, ii. 457, 502.
- Ash-sherrát (the Somosierra), chain of mountains between new and old Castile, i. 533.
- Ash-shettífí, the sailor, is appointed governor of Malaga, ii. App. xix; put to death, xx.
- Ashifá, a mistress of 'Abdu-r-rahmán II. of Cordova, ii. 126.
- Ash-shimr, one of the murderers of Huseyn, son of 'Alí, ii. 80.
- Ashír, town of the country of Senhájah, ii. 192.
- Ashkar, castle of, near Baeza, ii. 352.
- Ashtorikah or Ashtorkah (Astorga), city, i. 282, 286, 544; besieged, ii. 100; taken by Al-mansúr, 189.
- Ashturish (Asturias), kingdom founded, ii. 260.
- Aslam Ibn 'Abdi-l-'azíz, i. 486.
- Asmá, daughter of Ghálib An-násirí, married to Al-mansúr, ii. 180.
- As-sa'ádát, the Fortunate Islands, or Canaries, description of, i. 72; by some believed to be the Madeiras, 379.
- As-sabíkah. See Sibkah.
- As-sadfi, historian, i. 252.
- As-safá, name of a hillock in the territory of Mekka, i. 245, 507.
- As-safadí. See Khalíl.

- As-sahlah, district so called, between Murcia and Valencia, i. 70; erected into a kingdom by Ibn Razín, ii. 258, 507.
- As-sa'id. See 'Alí Ibnu-l-mámún.
- Ibn Abí Fáris, Sultán of Western Africa, ii. 364.
- Ibnu-l-musáb, ii. 10.
- As-sajrah (Sagra), port on the coast of Malaga, ii. 300.
- As-sálehiyyah, quarter of the city of Cairo, i. 404.
- As-samádehiyah, a city built by Mohammed Ibn Samádeh, King of Almeria, i. 135.
- As-sam'ání, writer on genealogy, i. 301.
- As-samh Ibn 'Omar Ibn Dhí-n-nún, ancestor of the Bení Dhí-n-nún, ii. 255, 440.
- Ibn Málík Al-khaulání, governor of Spain, i. 538; erects a bridge on the Guadalquivir at Cordova, i. 212, 327, 490; account of his administration, ii. 32; his death in battle, 33, 407.
- As-sámí. See Hasan.
- As-samíl Ibn Hátim Ibn Shamr Al-kelebí (Abú-l-jaushan), governor of Spain under the Khalifs, ii. 46; revolts against Abú-l-khattár, 47; is besieged in Saragossa, 63; solicited to take the part of the Bení Umeyyah, 64; advises Yúsuf, 67; makes his peace with 'Abdu-r-rahmán I., 72; is thrown into prison, and poisoned, 80.
- As-sarnabákí or As-sarnábekí. See Sa'dún Ibn Fatah.
- Ased Al-johaní (Abú Mohammed), ii. 11.
- As-seffáh. See 'Abdullah.
- As-sekáh, town, ii. 306.
- As-senháji. See Bádís and Habús.
- As-serráj, the Muwallad, execution of, ii. 452.
- 'Assem Ibn Moslem Ath-thakefí, Wizír of 'Abdu-rahmán I. of Cordova, ii. 92.
- As-seyraffí, ii. 474.
- As-sohaylí. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibnu-l-khattíb.
- As-sojunu-l-kadím (the old prison), suburb so called in Cordova, i. 206.
- As-sokheyrah, town in the neighbourhood of Murcia, ii. 327, 512.
- As-solayhí. See 'Alí Ibn Mohammed.
- As-soleytán. See Alfonso III. of Castile.
- As-súlí, a poet of the Bení 'Abbás, ii. 171.
- Astabah (Estepa), town, i. 42, 205, 345; 485, ii. 447.
- Astijah. See Estijah.
- Astorga. See Ashtorkah.
- 'Atáb, name of a street in Baghdád, ii. 358.
- 'Atábí, silken stuff so called, manufactured at Almeria, i. 51, 358.
- Atanúinús, King of the Goths, i. 26; supposed to be the same as Ataulphus, 324.
- Athanagild, succeeds Theodomir in the kingdom of Murcia, i. 536, ii. 377, 413.
- At-talík, the Sherif, poet, verses by, i. 39.
- At-tamáshekah, a Berber partisan, ravages committed by, ii. 449.
- At-táyí. See Habíb.
- Ath-tháj, tribe, ii. App. lvii.
- Athl, mother of Al-mundhir, Sultán of Cordova, ii. 131.
- Ath-tha'álebí. See 'Abdu-l-málík Ibn Mohammed.
- 'A'tita, mother of Hishám III. of Cordova, ii. App. xv.
- 'Atta Ibn Ráfi' Al-hudhelí, i. App. lxxi.
- At-tárikhí, surname given to the historian Ar-rázi, i. 314.
- At-teshtánah, helmets so called, ii. 158.
- At-tífáshí. See Abú-l-fadhl.
- 'Attík Ibn Mohammed Ibn Al-múl, Wizír of Nasr Abú-l-jiyúsh, King of Granada, ii. 348.
- At-tojibí. See Al-mundhir, 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn Mohammed, Mohammed Abú Yahya, and Mohammed Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán.
- At-tólaj, odoriferous root found in Spain, i. 88, 388.
- At-tortoshí. See Mohammed Ibnu-l-walíd.
- 'Auf Ibn Málík Al-ashja'í, ii. 9.
- 'Aún, son of Sa'id, joins his father in his rebellion, ii. 443.
- Aurah, castle of, in Catalonia, taken by Lob, ii. 455.
- Auriwélah or Ouriwwélah (Orihuela), city of, i. 70, 523; besieged by the Arabs, 281; gallantly defended by Theodomir, the Goth, ib.
- Aus, tribe of, i. 178, 455, ii. 26.
- Ausaf, castle of, in Africa, i. App. lxix.
- Avempace. See Mohammed Ibn Yahya.
- Aveniun (Avignon), taken by the Arabs, i. 288, 544.
- Avenzoar, corruption of Ebn or Ibn Zohr, q. v.
- Áyád, tribe of, ii. 24.
- 'Aydhab, city, i. 424.
- 'A'yeshah, widow of the Prophet, i. 509, ii. 11, 399.
- 'Ayn Atesah, place so called in the province of Granada, ii. 306.
- Aynajah, battle of, ii. 335.
- Aynaxid, town, i. 361.
- 'Aynu-d-duma' (the fountain of the tears); at Granada, i. 43.

- 'Aynu-n-namar (the fountain of the panthers), a place in Syria, i. 298.
- Ayrosch, castle of, in the mountains of Malaga, ii. App. xx, xxi.
- 'Ayssu (Essau), called also Edom, supposed to be the father of the Vandals, i. 203, 483.
- Ayúb, son of the Khalif Suleymán, i. App. lxxxviii.
- Ibn Habíb Al-lakhmí, governor of Spain, ii. App. iv; administration of, 17; conquests, 403.
- Ibn Matrúh, i. 132.
- Aywalátin, town bordering on the great African desert, i. 302; attacked and taken by the people of Tekrúr, 303.
- 'Ayyásh Ibn Akhyal, i. App. lx, lxxvi.
- Azarafes, a hilly district close to Cordova, i. 363.
- Az-zaghal. See Mohammed.
- Azamór, a town in Africa, i. 224, 333.
- Azd, tribe of, ii. 25.
- Azilah (Arsila), a port of Africa, i. 382.
- 'Aziz Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek Ibn Khattáb (Abú Bekr), Lord of Murcia, put to death by Ibn Mardanish, ii. App. lxxviii.
- Ibn 'Ala Ibn 'Abdi-l-mun'am, of Denia, ii. 347.
- Azízí, writer on geography, i. 316.
- Azrakis, a sect so called from their founder Náfi' Ibnu-l-azrak, i. 547.
- Az-záhirah. See Medínatu-z-záhirah.
- Az-zahrá. See Medínatu-z-zahrá.
- Az-zahrah (the planet Venus), i. 19.
- Az-zahráwí. See Khalf Ibn 'Abbás.
- Az-zahrí, i. 144, 421. See also Mohammed Ibn Moslem.
- Az-zajjáj (Abú-l-kásim), work written by, i. 479; by whom commented upon, 197.
- Az-zarkál. See Abú-l-kásim.
- Az-zobeyr Ibn Mohammed Ibn Ghániyyah, ii. App. lxiii.
- Az-zohrí. See Al-hobáb.
- Az-zubeydí. See Mohammed Ibnu-l-hasan.
- Báb 'A'mir (the gate of Amír the Korayshite), in Cordova, i. 207.
- Badhaliós (the gate of Badajoz), also called Báb Józ (the gate of the walnuts), in Cordova, i. 369.
- Ibn 'Abdi-l-jabbár (the gate of Ibn 'Abdi-l-jabbár), in Cordova, i. 206; called also Báb Toleytolah (the gate of Toledo), and Bábu-r-rúmiyah (the gate of the Christian), ib.
- Jehwar, or gate of Jehwar, in Seville, ii. 523.
- Báb Józ*, one of the gates of Cordova. See Báb Badhaliós.
- Liyún (the gate of Leon). See Báb Talabeyrah.
- Sarakostah (the gate of Saragossa). See Bábu-l-hadíd.
- Talabeyrah (the gate of Talavera), in Cordova, also called Bab Liyún (the gate of Leon), i. 206.
- Tárik (the gate of Tárik), now Buitrago, i. 533.
- Toleytolah. See Báb Ibn 'Abdi-l-jabbár.
- Bábu-l-'attárín* (the gate of the druggists), also called the gate of Seville, in Cordova, i. 207.
- -l-dabbághín (the gate of the tanners), spot so called at Toledo, i. 82, 383.
- -l-faraj, gate in Seville, ii. 254.
- -l-hadíd (the iron gate), in Cordova, i. 206; called also Báb Sarakostah (the gate of Saragossa, ib.
- -l-jenán (the gate of the gardens), in the royal palace of Cordova, ii. 161, 287.
- -l-jezírati-l-khadhrá (the gate of the green island or Algesiras), in Cordova, i. 206.
- -l-júz (the gate of the walnuts), in Cordova, i. 207.
- -l-kantarah (the gate of Alcantara or the bridge), in Cordova, i. 206; also called Bábu-l-wáda (the gate of the river).
- -l-mahrúk, one of the gates of Fez, why so called, ii. 367.
- -l-majús, spot so called in the bay of Azilah, i. 382.
- -l-'okáb (the gate of the black eagles), in Almeria, i. 51.
- -l-yáhúd (the gate of the Jews), a gate and suburb in Cordova, i. 206, 207.
- -n-nakkál, a gate in Cordova, ii. 492.
- -r-rúmiyah. See Báb Ibn 'Abdi-l-jabbár.
- -sh-shar'iah, one of the gates of Fez, ii. 367, 390.
- -s-sába' (the gate of the lions), in the royal palace of Cordova, ii. 287.
- -s-sabbághín (the gate of the dyers), in Seville, ii. 254.
- -s-sán'ah, one of the gates of the royal palace of Cordova, ii. 173.
- -s-suddah, gate so called in the royal palace of Cordova, ii. 161, 173, 462.
- Báb Ya'kúb*, gate of Ya'kúb, in Granada, ii. 352.
- Bádí, a town in the territory of Guadix, i. 351.
- Bádís Ibn Habús, King of Granada, i. 44, 350; his

- dominions invaded by Zohayr, ii. 248; his wars against Al-kádir Ibn Dhí-n-nún, 249.
- Bádís, son of Mákesen, the Zeyrite, ii. 502.
- Ibn Al-mansúr, third of the Zeyrites of Africa, ii. 502.
- Baena. See Bayénah.
- Baeza. See Bayésah.
- Baghdád, histories of, i. 177, 453; the city compared to Cordova, 200.
- Bahlúl Ibn Marzúk, governor of Tudela, ii. 427.
- Bahr Nitus, a corruption from Bahr Bontus (the Pont Euxine), i. 527.
- Tirren, the Tyrrhenum Mare or sea of Tuscany, i. 21.
- Shám (the sea of Syria or Mediterranean), i. 19.
- Bahru-dh-dholamát (the sea of darkness or Atlantic Ocean), i. 329.
- -l-akhdhar (the green sea or Gulph of Gascony, i. 329.
- -l-banádikeh (the Gulf of Venice), i. 19.
- -l-muhít (the circumambient sea or ocean, i. 328.
- -r-rúmí (the sea of Greece), i. 23.
- -z-zokák (the narrow sea or the Strait of Gibraltar), i. 20, 22, 250.
- Bahrám, i. 332.
- Bakí Ibn Mokhlid (Abú 'Abdi-r-rahmán), his commentary on the Korán, i. 180; his lives of the companions of the Prophet, 181, 189; account of his life and writings, 455, ii. 128, 129.
- Balaghi (Balaguer), castle of, in the district of Lerida, ii. 261; built by Lob, 455.
- Balanbu, valley of, in Galicia, ii. 194.
- Balát, meanings of the word, i. 494, 495, App. lxxiv; ii. 406.
- (Albalate), near Seville, taken by the Almoravides, ii. 297; by the Berbers, 449.
- Balátt Al-'arús, battle of, ii. App. xliii.
- Al-horr or palace of Al-horr, in Cordova, ii. 73.
- Hamíd, spot so called in Spain, i. 122.
- Mugheyth (the palace of Mugheyth), why so called, ii. 399; also the name of one of the suburbs of Cordova, i. 206.
- Baláttu-sh-shohadá (the pavement of the martyrs), why so called, ii. 33, 37.
- Balensiah (Valencia), city, called Medínatu-t-tarab (the city of mirth), described, i. 66, 374; kingdom of, ii. 257, 505; the city taken by the Cid, 333; recovered by the Almoravides, App. xlii; finally taken by Jayme I. of Aragon, 334, App. lxxvii.
- Bális. See Medínatu-z-záhirah.
- Bálish or Bélish, a town of Africa, also one in Spain, close to Malaga, i. 356, ii. 380.
- Balj Ibn Beshr Al-kusheyri, usurpation of, ii. 18, 23, 38, 41; death of, 44.
- Balkín Ibn Bádís, is appointed governor of Malaga, ii. 501, 502.
- Ibn Zeyri Ibn Menád As-senhájí, invades Western Africa, ii. 166.
- Banbilónah (Pamplona), city, i. 75, 268.
- Banbolah, the ancient Bilbilis Augusta, near Calatayud, i. 373.
- Bará, a musical instrument used by the people of Súdán, i. 59, 366.
- Baragh'wáttah, religious sect of the, i. 333; origin of, ib.
- Barárid, conjectural meaning of the word, i. 359.
- Barbashter (Barbastro), town, besieged and taken by Sancho I. of Aragon, ii. 265; the inhabitants put to the sword, 266; recovered by the Moslems, 269.
- Barbátt, a spot near Xerez, i. 333.
- Barcelona, Count of, his embassy to 'Abdu-r-rahmán III. of Cordova, ii. 139. See also Barshelúnah.
- Bardulia, ancient name of Castile, ii. 406.
- Barrah, family, ii. 27.
- Barshelúnah (Barcelona), city, described, i. 74; recovered by the Franks, ii. 102, 426; the country round wasted by the armies of 'Abdu-r-rahmán II., 114; the city taken by Al-mansúr, 189.
- Bartánah (Partana), town, i. 68; battle of, ib.
- Barweskah (Briviesca), town, i. 66, 373.
- Bashír, the eunuch, general of Al-kádir, King of Toledo, ii. App. xxix.
- Bashkans, name given by the Arabs to the people of Navarre and Biscay, i. 544.
- Bashshár Ibn Burd Ibn Yorjúkh Al-'okaylí (Abú Mo'adh), poet, i. 190, 468.
- Basrah, city of Arabia, histories of, i. 177.
- , town of Western Africa, i. 175; taken, ii. 189.
- Bastah (Baza), town, taken by Ferdinand, ii. 382.
- Baternah (Paterna), a village on the coast of Granada, i. 90, 389.
- Bathalíos or Bathlios (Badajoz), city, described, i. 69, 369; made the capital of a kingdom, ii. 256; taken by Alfonso Enriquez, 522.
- Batrikus, general of the ancient Africans, lands in Spain, i. 24; settles at Tálikah (Italica), ib.

- Batti, an Almoravide officer, takes Cordova, ii. 512.
- Bayénah (Baena), city, i. 42, 345.
- Bayésah (Baeza), city, i. 53, ii. 457; taken by the Almoravides, ii. 297; by the Christians, 521.
- Bedr (Abú-l-kasr), a freed slave of 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn Mu'awiyah, ii. 60; lands in Spain with a secret commission of his master, 62; his services, 421, 422; dies in disgrace, 90.
- , Hájib of 'Abdullah, Sultán of Cordova, ii. 459.
- Beghah (Vega), a district and town in the province of Jaen, i. 45, 353, ii. 443, 453.
- Beja. See Bejah.
- Bejah or Bájah (Beja), a town of Portugal, described, i. 60, 284, 285, 368; history of, by whom written, 205.
- Bejáyah or Bujáyah, now Bugia, in Africa, i. 359.
- Bejennah (Pechina), a village close to Almeria, i. 356; river of, ib.; becomes the maritime arsenal of the Bení Umeyyah, App. xxxv; ii. 140; account of the peopling of, 447.
- Bejer, a town, i. 313.
- Beká'h, district near Damascus, ii. 321.
- Bekáyah, town, ii. 522.
- Bekr Ibn Sawádah Ibn Themámah Al-jodhámí, ii. 9.
- Ibn Wáyil, i. 298, 548.
- Ibn Yahya Ibn Bekr, takes the part of the Muwallads, ii. 440.
- Beladís or Beladiún, a race of Arabs, i. 290; why so called, ii. 44; their feud with the Syrian Arabs, ib.
- Beládu-sh-shamál (the land of the north), a collective name for Aragon, Navarre, and Catalonia, i. 322.
- Belalí, town, ii. 306.
- Beláy. See Pelayo.
- Belbís, town, i. 424.
- Beldah, castle of, besieged and taken, ii. 457.
- Bélesh (Velez-Malaga), town, described, i. 50, 356, ii. 306; taken by Ferdinand, 380.
- Beliko, castle of, ii. 195.
- Bells, Christian, used as lamps in the mosque of Cordova, i. 501; recovered by Ferdinand III. of Castile, ib.
- Belún, river, ii. 455.
- Bena Haxin, town, i. 361.
- Bení 'Abbád, family and dynasty of the, origin of, ii. 250.
- 'Abdi-d-dár, tribe of the, ii. 2, 396.
- 'Abdi-l-barr, ii. 23.
- 'Abdi-s-sellám, ii. 27.
- Abí-l-huseyn, i. App. xxxii.
- Al-afttas, dynasty of the, account of, ii. 256.
- Bení Al-aghlab, an African dynasty, their maritime forces, i. App. xxxv.
- Al-ahmar, family and dynasty of the, ii. 26; origin of, 339.
- Al-khattib, family of the, ii. 543.
- Al-bájí, ii. 27.
- Al-fallás, a principal family of Badajoz, i. 61.
- Al-jadd, ii. 37.
- Al-kali'af, family of, where residing, ii. 25.
- Al-kásim, ii. 37, 400.
- Al-muhájir, origin of the, ii. 441.
- Al-waksh, ii. 22, 400.
- 'A'mir, family and dynasty, account of the, ii. 257.
- 'Askar, tribé, ii. 366.
- As-sammák, ii. 27.
- 'Attiyah, ii. 23.
- Aus, tribe, ii. 402.
- Birzál, Berber tribe of the, enlist under Al-mansúr, ii. 187.
- Dhaha, family, ii. 26, 403.
- Dhí-n-nún, family and dynasty, i. 46; account of the, ii. 46, 255, 263.
- Fezár, tribe, ii. App. lxxv.
- Ghániyyah, family and dynasty, account of the, ii. 524, App. lxii.
- Ghomárah (Gomeles), an African tribe, i. 513.
- Hamdán, dynasty of the, rulers of Aleppo, encourage literature, i. 36.
- Hamdán, family of the, settle in Spain, and where, ii. 26.
- Hamdín, family of the, i. 202, 483, ii. 23.
- Hammád, dynasty, ii. App. xxxix, xli.
- Hammúd, dynasty of the, i. 99, 395; account of, ii. 230.
- Harb, ii. 230.
- Hejáj, ii. 415.
- Húd, family and dynasty of the, ii. 27; account of, 255.
- Idrís, dynasty of the, in Africa, ii. 143; in Spain, 231; a branch of establish themselves in Malaga, 245, and in Algesiras, 247.
- Jafnah, tribe, i. 372.
- Jehwar, family, ii. 29.
- Jodhám, tribe, ii. 27.
- Júda, family of the, where residing, ii. 22.
- Kasí or Kosa, history of the, i. 186; account of them, ii. 440.
- Kelb, ii. 69.

- Bení Khalaf, ii. 402.
 — Kháled, family of the, ii. 446, 452.
 — Khazr, African tribe of, defeated by 'Abdu-l-malek, son of Al-mansúr, ii. 188.
 — Khazrún, a Berber tribe, their conquests, i. App. xxxvi.
 — Mardanísh, family and dynasty, ii. 27, App. Iv.
 — Maymún, dynasty, account of the, i. App. xxxvii; ii. 517.
 — Mázin, family of the, ii. 25.
 — Meknásah or Meknésah, Berber tribe, enlist under Al-mansúr, ii. 187.
 — Merín, dynasty, ii. 325.
 — Moslemah, ii. 415.
 — Muhlib, family, ii. 25, 402.
 — Nasr, dynasty, account of the, ii. 339.
 — 'Obádah, ii. 29.
 — 'Odhra, ii. 29, 408.
 — Odh'ha, ii. 403.
 — Rashík, ii. 23.
 — Rúh Ibn Zaba', Arabian tribe of, i. App. lxxx.
 — Rustam, ii. 62.
 — Sa'id, family of the, i. App. xxxii; ii. 27; history of, by whom written, i. 309.
 — Sáleh, dynasty of the, in Africa, ii. 143.
 — Selím, family of the, ii. 442; town named after them, ib.
 — Serráj, a family originally from Cordova, corrupted into Abencerrages by the Spaniards, i. 315, ii. 27; massacre of the, 370.
 — Seyd, ii. 415.
 — Shahíd, family, ii. App. lxxv.
 — Sheybán, tribe, their wars against the Bení Taghleb, ii. 510.
 — Taghleb, tribe, ii. 510.
 — Táhir, dynasty, account of the, ii. 257, 511.
 — Tárik (Bentarique), tribe and town near Almeria, ii. 447.
 — Táwáil, family, history of the, i. 186.
 — Tayy, ii. 26.
 — Tojib, family, i. 396, ii. 28; account of the, 441.
 — Umeyyah, dynasty of the, titles assumed by, i. 98, 395; establishment of, in Spain, ii. 74; overthrow, 230; revenues of Spain under them, 400; policy pursued by, 98; splendor of their court, 99.
 — Wáfid, ii. 27.
 — Yahya, family of the, ii. 123.
 — Zahrah, ii. 17.
- Bení Zeyyán, African dynasty of the, i. 497.
 — Zohrah or Zahrah, ii. 21, 400.
- Beniaux, town, ii. 402.
 Benicalaf, town, ii. 402.
 Benish, town, ii. 515.
 Benzert. See Tenzert.
- Beránis, great tribe of Berbers, their feuds with the Botar, ii. 449.
 Berbers, revolt of the, in Africa, ii. 38, 40; in Spain, 410.
 Beremundo (Bermudo I.), King of Asturias, defeated, ii. 99.
 ——— Ibn Ordhún (Bermudo II.), King of Asturias and Leon, ii. 195.
- Berián, fabulous King of Spain, is present at the taking of Jerusalem, i. 25, 323.
- Berjah (Berja), district and town, i. 51; lead mines of, 53.
- Berján or Burján, land of, supposed to be Denmark, i. 19, 316.
- Berkah Kánún (the reservoir of Kánún), a place in Eastern Africa, i. App. lx.
- Bermond (Veremundus), Count of Barcelona, joins Suleymán, ii. 492.
- Bermudo. See Beremundo.
- Bernaldez, Andrés, his inedited chronicle of Ferdinand and Isabella, i. 322, ii. 542.
- Beroshah (Borja?), in Aragon, i. 373.
- Berráz Ibn Mohammed Al-masúfi, general of 'Abdu-l-múmen, lands in Spain, ii. App. l, li; takes Seville, ib.
- Bes, castle of, ii. 443.
- Besher Ibn Katten, ii. 106.
 ——— Ibn Merwán, ii. App. lii.
 ——— or Beshr Ibn Sefwán Al-kelbí, governor of Eastern Africa, ii. 9, 35.
- Betrúh or Betrôh (Los Pedroches), a town in the territory of Cordova, i. 174, 345, ii. 103.
- Bexixar. See Hisn Bejj.
- Beyrah (Vera), town, i. 95, ii. 305.
- Beyt-mál, meaning of the expression, i. 235.
- Bézú, fortress of, in Galicia, i. 291, 546.
- Bíjah (Pisa), armour from, imported into Spain, i. 393.
- Binjent (St. Vincent), church of, in Cordova, i. 217, 493.
- Birtanieh or Britániyah, a district of Aragon, i. 66, 373, ii. 451.
- Birtániyyah, Great Britain, believed to be one of the Fortunate Islands, i. 21; description of, 72.

- Biserta, a town in Africa, i. 527.
- Bishter, castle of, where situated, ii. 437, App. li; besieged, 452, 456.
- Bishtilicat, Bishtilkát, or Bishtólcát, a northern nation, invade Spain, i. 26; supposed to be the Visigoths, 324.
- Bobáshter, a place near Malaga, ii. 438.
- Bogháth, species of hawk, i. 331.
- Boháu-d-dín Ibn Shedád, his life of Saládin, translated into Spanish by Borbon, i. Pref. x.
- Bokht-Nasr (Nebuchodonosor), takes Jerusalem, i. 25; invades Spain, 323.
- Bolkúnah (Porcuna), town, i. 42, 205, 345, 484.
- Boloduy, the river of Almeria, i. 360.
- Bolonia, town, i. 494.
- Bolullos, castle in the territory of Granada, ii. 344.
- Bónah (Bona), a city of Africa, i. 406.
- Books, passion for, in Cordova, i. 140.
- Borbon (Don Faustino de), list of works written by, i. Pref. ix.
- Bordhál or Bordhil (Bourdeaux), i. 21, 319.
- Bordheliát, swords called, from their being manufactured at Bordhil (Bourdeaux), i. 94, 393.
- Boreyhah, mother of Al-mansúr, ii. 178.
- Boreyl (Borel), Count of Barcelona, defeated by Al-mansúr, ii. 189, App. xxiii.
- Borhánu-d-dín. See Nássir Ibn Abí-l-mukárim.
- Borja. See Deyr Borujah.
- Borju-l-maléhah, castle of, dismantled, ii. 386.
- Bort Ashmarah, pass of Ceret or Puig-cerdá, in the Pyrenees, i. 317.
- Bayúnnah (gate of Bayonne), a pass in the Pyrenees, i. 317.
- Jakah, the pass of Jaca or Puerto de Canfranc, in the Pyrenees, i. 317.
- Shézar (gate of Cæsar), a pass in the Pyrenees, i. 317.
- Bortekál (Portæ Gallæ), or Portugal, i. 19, 316.
- Bortokál (Oporto), taken by Fruela, ii. 85, 194.
- Bostán, the Greek, director of the college called Al-jakmakí at Damascus, i. 306.
- Bradamante, fabulous King of Guadalaxara, i. 384.
- Buélash, fortified town of, in the province of Elvira, ii. 444.
- Buheyrah, tower of, in Seville, ii. 523.
- Buitrago. See Báb-Tárik.
- Buleyk, eunuch of Al-muhdi, ii. 492; is killed in battle, 494.
- Búrán, nuptials of, ii. 255.
- Burghosh (Burgos), taken and destroyed by 'Abdu-rahmán III. of Cordova, ii. 135.
- Burshénah (Purchena), town, ii. 305, 386, 447.
- Buseyr, a town of Egypt, ii. 58.
- Cabra. See Kabrah.
- Çafarí, sort of fig called, i. 387.
- Cairwán, a city of Eastern Africa, i. App. lxi.
- Calatayud. See Kal'at-Ayúb.
- Calatrava, castle of, in the province of Rayyah, taken, ii. 457. See also Kal'ah-Rabah.
- Callosa, a town of the province of Murcia, ii. 441.
- Cambil, town, besieged and taken by the Christians, ii. 375.
- Canales, fortress of, delivered to Alfonso VI., ii. App. xxx.
- Cangera, town, i. 319.
- Cangiar, town, i. 319.
- Captil or Captiel. See Kabtál.
- Carcassonne. See Karkashúnah.
- Carmona. See Karmúnah.
- Casablanca, a spot near Cordova, i. 487.
- Casas del Gallo (las), a palace in Granada, ii. 540.
- de la Reyna, a Moorish palace near Toledo, ruins of, i. 383; called also "Palacios de Galiana" (the palaces of Galiana), 384.
- Cazlona. See Kastalonah.
- Charlemagne. See Károloh.
- Chindaswind, King of the Goths, i. 512.
- Chrysos, river, now Guadalete, i. 524.
- Cid. See Rudherik.
- Collera, a hamlet near Cordova, i. 531.
- Columbera, town, surrenders to Ferdinand, ii. 378.
- Conde, Don José Antonio, judgment of his work, i. Pref. x; his numerous errors exposed, xi; biographical account of, xii.
- Conória, town, ii. App. xxx.
- Constantine, Emperor of Constantinople, sends presents to 'Abdu-rahmán III., ii. 137; reception given to his ambassadors, 138, 140.
- the Great. See Khoshandinus.
- Constantinople, naval expedition against, i. 174.
- Convent, description of a, near Malaga, i. 405; near Granada, 115; monastic rules described, 405.
- Cordova. See Korttubah.
- Corsica, landing of the Arabs in the island of, i. App. xxxvi.
- Coyança, town, taken by Al-mansúr, ii. 479.
- Cuzna. See Koznah.

- Cyprus, conquest of, by the Arabs, i. 173.
 Cyrene, a city of Africa, retaken by 'Okbah, i. 539.
- Dabdabah, musical instrument used by the blacks of Súdán, i. 59, 366.
 Dagfal, the arrow of, meaning of the expression, i. 170.
 Damascus, history of, written by Al-makkarí, i. Pref. xxxiii; great mosque of, began by Al-walíd, 305.
 Dár Al-bakar (the stable of the cows), a village in the territory of Cordova, i. 345.
 Daroh (Darro), called also Hadároh, a river of Granada, i. 43, 348.
 Darúkah (Daroca), town, ii. 304; taken by Alfonso I. of Aragon, 514.
 Dáru-l-ashráf (the house of the Sherífs), at Seville, i. 145.
 Dáru-r-raudhah, palace built by 'Abdu-r-rahmán III., description of, ii. 467.
 Dáru-s-sorúr (the abode of the pleasures), name of a palace built at Saragossa by Al-muktadir Ibn Húd, i. 65.
 Darwázah, a sort of dress worn by Mohammedan derwishes, i. 114, 404.
 Dashna, town, i. 424.
 Dáwúd, son of the Khalif Suleymán, i. App. lxxxviii.
 — Al-ansári (Abú Suleymán), ii. 69.
 — Ibn 'Alí Ibn Khalf Adh-dháherí Al-isfahání (Abú Suleymán), founder of the sect of the Dháherites, i. 335.
 Dejmah (Diezma), town near Granada, ii. 305.
 Deniah (Denia), city, i. 68, 376; kingdom of, by whom founded, ii. 257, 506.
 Deyr Borújah (Borja), in Aragon, ii. 436.
 Deyr-hinná, a place near Damascus, ii. 92.
 Deyr Kasán or Kosmán, monastery of, in Galicia, ii. 194, 480.
 — Shús, a monastery on the river Guadajoz, ii. 490.
 Deysam Ibn Is'hák, rebellion of, ii. 439.
 Dhab'yah, mother of Suleymán, Sultán of Cordova, ii. App. xi.
 Dháherites, sect of the, by whom founded, i. 335.
 Dhátu-l-jamáhim, a place in Africa, i. App. liv, lv.
 Dhátu-s-sawárá, a place on the northern coast of Africa, ii. 5, 397.
 Dhekuwán, a fortress near Malaga, ii. 374, 455, 539.
 Dhí-n-nún, family of, their origin, ii. 440; rebellions, 441.
 Dhiyáu-d-dín. See Ibnu-l-beyttar.
- Dhiyáu-d-dín, son of Sakút, i. 333.
 Dhobbah, tribe of, where inhabiting, ii. 22.
 Dhú-assbah, family, where established, ii. 28.
 Dhúku (Dux?), King of the Sclavonians, sends an embassy to 'Abdu-r-rahmán III. of Cordova, ii. 139.
 Dhú-l-menár Al-himyarí, one of the Tabbábah or kings of Yemen, i. 378.
 Dhú-l-wizárateyn, meaning of the words, i. 103, 370, App. xxx.
 Dhú-r-ro'ayn, family of, ii. 28.
 Dhú-r-rommah. See Ghaylán.
 Dhú-s-sobáh, mother of Táshefín, the Almoravide, ii. 517.
 Díbáj, manufactures of, i. 51, 358.
 Dihyah. See Mohammed Ibn Mohammed Al-balúní.
 Dilar. See Dolar.
 Dimashk, palace so called in Cordova, i. 211, 489.
 Dioscorides, copy of his work sent to Cordova, i. App. xxiv; by whom translated into Arabic, ib.
 Diyár-Modhar, district of Syria, i. 189.
 Diyár-Rabí', i. 189.
 Dobbah, a drum used by the people of Súdán, i. 59, 366.
 Dolar or Dilar, town, ii. 306.
 Dukélah, province of Africa, ii. App. lxxiii.
- Edom (the red-haired), the same as Esau, i. 483.
 Education, state of, among the Spanish Moslems, i. 140.
 Egica (Ejih), King of the Goths, sends a fleet to Africa, i. 512.
 Egilona. See Eyila.
 Ejih. See Egica.
 Elche, plain of, ii. App. xxxii.
 Elvira, the ancient Illiberis, i. 34, 44, 349; history of, ii. 171; battle of, 350.
 Epila, a town of Aragon, taken by Alfonso I., ii. 514.
 Eriko or Erika, i. 515.
 Errink (Henry of Besançon), first Count of Portugal, wars with, ii. App. xliii, xlv.
 Escorial Library, partly consumed by fire, i. Pref. ix; catalogue of its oriental MSS. made by Casiri, ib.; deficient in works relative to Spain, xi; reasons for this deficiency, ib.
 Escuriente, a town near Granada, i. 407.
 Esparraguera, town of the province of Elvira, ii. 445.
 Estefan, son of Basíl, translates Dioscorides into Arabic, i. App. xxiv.
 Estepa. See Astabah.

- Estijah or Astijah (Ezija), a city of Andalusia, i. 42, 205, 213, 345, 485; taken by Tárík, i. 275.
- Ethics, study of, i. 142; works on, 188.
- Eyila (Egilona), widow of Roderic, marries 'Abdu-l-'azíz, son of Músa, i. 543, ii. 30, 404.
- Ezija. See Estijah.
- Fáfilah (Favila), King of Asturias, ii. 261.
- Fahss Al-font, town, ii. 539.
- Al-lej (the plain of Elche), in the province of Alicante, ii. App. xliii.
- Fahssu-d-danísúl, place so called in the province of Granada, ii. 306.
- l-aráhí (the field of the mills), a promenade near Cordova, i. 212.
- l-ballút (the field of the oak trees), near Cordova, i. 174, ii. 148, 501.
- s-sorádík (the field of the tents), near Cordova, ii. 489, 492.
- s-sorrák (the field of the thieves), near Cordova, i. 212.
- s-sudd (the field of the dam), near Cordova, i. 212.
- Fauih (Sp. Alfaquí), i. e. theologian, title of, considered a distinction in Spain, i. 141.
- Fauiqs, their dress and habits in Spain, i. 113.
- Fáráb, a town of Transoxania, i. App. xv.
- Faraj, son of Mohammed II. of Granada, ii. 346.
- (Abú Sa'íd), governor of Malaga, revolts against Nasr, ii. 348; causes his son Isma'íl to be proclaimed King of Granada, 350.
- Ibn Barkúk, Sultán of Egypt, i. 311; defeated by Timúr, ib.
- Ibn Isma'íl, ii. 353.
- Ibn Kenánah Al-kenání, ii. 430.
- Faran Beril or Faran Barbal, a suburb of Cordova, i. 206, 487.
- Fara'ún Ibnu-l-'abbás, ii. 100.
- Fátimah, sister of Hasan the Idrísíte, sets out on a pilgrimage to Mekka, ii. App. xviii.
- Fátin, the Sclavonian, writes a history of his nation, ii. 200.
- Fáyik, the Sclavonian, eunuch of Al-hakem II, and Hishám II. of Cordova, helps to the accession of the latter, ii. 175, 177.
- Fáyiz, eunuch of Hishám II. of Cordova, ii. 486.
- Fehr, tribe of, ii. 21.
- Ibn Asil, rebellion of, ii. 443, 457.
- Fej-Músa, or the pass of Músa, where situated, i. 292.
- Fej-Talyáresh, name of a field in the outskirts of Cordova, ii. 208.
- Tárík (the mountain pass of Tárík), where situated, i. 282, 286; why so called, i. 533; supposed to be Buitrago, ib.
- Feju-l-meydah (the pass of the table), or of Almeyda, near Cordova, ii. 4, 396.
- Ferdeland (Ferran Gonzalez), Count of Castile, ii. 139; his dominions invaded by Al-hakem II., 158; makes an alliance with Ordoño, 159.
- Ferdinand II. of Leon, surnamed Al-babúj, ii. 522, App. xxvi, lxxv.
- III. of Castile, takes Cordova, ii. 335; Seville, App. lxxx; makes peace with Ibnu-l-ahmar, 344.
- V. of Aragon, conquests of, ii. 374; policy, 376.
- Figuerola, his refutation of the Korán, i. 499, ii. 473.
- Filibus (Philippus), the Roman emperor, i. 27, 325.
- Finiana, town, ii. 386.
- Finilejah, castle of, near Jaen, ii. 456.
- Forát (the river Euphrates), i. 331; also a village near Seville, now called Tamariz, 361.
- Fortárish, a district of Galicia, ii. 194.
- Fortún, son of Garcia, King of Navarre, taken prisoner, ii. 127.
- Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek, is taken prisoner, ii. 455.
- Ibn Músa, general of 'Abdu-r-rahmán II. of Cordova, ii. 114.
- Fortunátash (the Fortunate or Canary Islands), i. 379.
- Foseyfasafa, meaning of the word, i. 496.
- Foteys Ibn Suleymán, general and Wizír of Al-hakem I. of Cordova, ii. 76, 106.
- Fraga, a town of Aragon, battle of, ii. 309, 517.
- Fruela, King of Asturias, conquests of, ii. 85.
- Galafre, fabulous King of Toledo, history of, and his daughter Galiana, i. 384.
- Galiana, daughter of Galafre, i. 384.
- Gallego, river, i. 372.
- Gallegos, town of Estremadura, ii. 480.
- Garcia, Lord of Barcelona, taken prisoner by the Northmen, ii. 435.
- , son of Ordoño, is kept in Cordova as a hostage, ii. 160.
- , son of Sancho, King of Galicia, ii. 465.
- , son of Sancho of Navarre, ii. 137, 139.
- II., son of Sancho, King of Navarre, sends an embassy to Al-hakem II. of Cordova, ii. 166.

- Garci-Fernandez, Count of Castile, taken prisoner, ii. 206.
- Garsiah Ibn Unekoh (García I., son of Iñigo), King of Navarre, defeated and killed, ii. 124, 431, 435.
- Genoa, landing of the Arabs at, i. App. xxxvi.
- Germany, the Emperor of, sends an embassy to 'Abdu-r-rahmán III. of Cordova, ii. 139.
- Gháfek, tribe of, ii. 26. See also Hisn.
- Ghaffári, velvet called, ii. 152.
- Ghálíb, An-násirí, general of Al-hakem II., defeats the Christians, ii. 158; invades Castile, 159; escorts Ordoño to Cordova, 160; his victories in Africa, 167, 476; befriends Al-mansúr, 181; quarrels with him and goes over to the Christians, 185.
- Ibn Sáleh Ibn Khalf Ibn Ma'dán Ibn Sufyán, i. 335.
- Ibn Umeyyah Ibn Ghálíb, ii. 190.
- Ibn Temám Ibn 'Alkamah, ii. 421; is put to death by Suleymán, 423.
- Ghalisiyah (Galicia), invaded, ii. 99, 102, 114, 127, 134; by Al-mansúr, 193; by his son 'Abdu-l-malek, 486.
- Ghánah, a city of Súdán, i. 302.
- Gháním Ibn Mohammed Ibn Mardanísh, ii. App. ix.
- Gharbia, name given to the districts west of Malaga, ii. 362.
- Gharíb Ibn Sa'íd, historian, i. 194.
- Gharnáttah or Karnáttah (Granada), description of, i. 42—45; taking of by the Arabs, 277, 280, 531; kingdom of Granada founded by Záwi, ii. 248; the city taken by the Almoravides, 295; by the Almohades, 316; by Ibnu-l-ahmar, who makes it the capital of his dominions, 399; besieged and finally taken by Ferdinand, 386—390.
- Ghaur, a district of Arabia, also a spot near Badajoz, i. 370.
- Ghautah, the meadow of Damascus, i. 65.
- Gháyah, mother of 'Abdu-r-rahmán III. of Cordova, ii. App. xiv.
- Ghaylán Ibn 'Okbah (Abú-l-hareth), surnamed Dhár-r-rommah, poet, i. 145, 422.
- Ghazzalán, ii. 118.
- Ghinár, a musical instrument used in Seville, i. 366.
- Ghírbál. See Kirbál.
- Ghittíshah. See Wittiza.
- Ghiyáth Al-azdí, ii. 422.
- Ghiyáthah, town, ii. 514.
- Ghomárah (Gomera), mountains of, in Africa, i. 513.
- Ghonbáz, meaning of the word, ii. 333.
- Gibrleon. See Jebal 'Oyún.
- Gibraltar. See Jebal-Tárik.
- Goths, the, invade Spain, i. 26, 203; besiege Rome, 27.
- Government, account of, among the Spanish Moslems, i. 95—111, App. xxviii.
- Grammar, study of, i. 142; works on, 183, 197.
- Granada. See Gharnáttah.
- Guadacelete. See Wáda-salit.
- Guadaira, river near Seville, ii. 454.
- Guadalabiar. See Wáda-l-abyádh.
- Guadalajara. See Wáda-l-hajárah.
- Guadalaxara. See Wáda-l-hajárah.
- Guadalcanal, silver mines of, i. 389.
- Guadaleáo. See Nahr Ilyán.
- Guadalete, river. See Wáda-Lek.
- Guadalmedina. See Wáda-l-medínah.
- Guadalquivir (Wáda-l-kebí), also called Wáda-l-'adhem (the great river), and Wáda Kortubah (the river of Cordova), described, i. 362; number of villages on its banks, 87, 387.
- Guadarrama. See Wáda-r-ramá.
- Guadix (Wádi-ash), a district and town near Granada, description of, i. 46.
- Guaroman. See Wáda-r-román.
- Guzman (Henrique de), Duke of Medina-Sidonia, relieves Alhama, ii. 541.
- Habán, ii. 10.
- Habásah, the Zeyrite, ii. 248.
- Habíb, the Slavonian, Lord of Tortosa, ii. 258.
- Ibn 'Abí 'Obeydah Ibn 'Okbah Ibn Náfi' Al-fehrí, one of the conquerors of Spain, i. 283, ii. 18, 399, 403, 411; is intrusted by Suleymán with the murder of 'Abdu-l-'azíz, App. iii, v.
- Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek, ii. 76, 78.
- Ibn Aus Ibn Kahtán (Abú Temám) At-táyí, his collection of poems entitled Hamásah, commented upon by Yúsuf Ibn Suleymán, i. 190, 468.
- Hábil Ibn Haríz Ibn Hábil (Abú Karámah), his revolt, ii. 444.
- Habús Ibn Mákesen, Sultán of Granada, i. 350; succeeds his unclé Záwi, ii. 248, 502.
- Hadároh, the river Darro at Granada, ii. 369.
- Haddád, i. 333.
- Hadhíyyah, mistress of 'Abdu-r-rahmán III. of Cordova, ii. 147.
- Hadhrah Bakshans, a town close to Almeria, i. 361.
- Hadhra-maut, son of Kahtán or Kays, i. 312; the descendants of, settle in Spain, ii. 29; rise in Seville, 449.
- , a district of Arabia, i. 312, ii. 29.

- Hadhrat 'Abbád, town near Ronda, ii. 533.
- Hadhratu-l-waríkah, a spot close to Cordova, i. 90, 389.
- Hafss or Hafssún, father of 'Omar, ii. 453.
- , son of 'Omar Ibn Hafssún, arrives in Cordova, ii. 446.
- Ibn Al-marrah, lieutenant of 'Omar Ibn Hafssún, his wars, ii. 443, 447; his death, 453.
- Ibn Mohammed Ibn Basíl, Wizír and Wáfi-l-medínah of Cordova, ii. 459.
- Ibn Suleymán Al-hallál (Abú Salmah and Abú Moslemah), i. 331, ii. 90, 417.
- Hafssah, daughter of Hamdún, poetess, i. 163, 165.
- Ar-rakúniyeh, daughter of Abú-l-hejáj, a celebrated poetess born at Granada, i. 45; verses by, ib.
- Hafssún Al-beránisí, ii. 451.
- Hajaru-n-nasr, a fortress of Western Africa, taken by Ghálib, ii. 167.
- Hájib or chamberlain, duties of the, under the Bení Umeyyah, i. App. xxx, 103, 397.
- Hajjáj Al-kúmis or the Count, is taken and beheaded, ii. 451.
- Hajún, name of a hillock in the territory of Mekka, i. 245, 507.
- Hákim or civil magistrate, duties of the, i. 104.
- Halal or Holal, mother of Hishám I. of Cordova, ii. 95, 424.
- Halál, castle of, taken by the Christians, ii. 519.
- Halawah, mother of 'Abdu-r-rahmán II. of Cordova, ii. 124.
- Hám Ibn 'Iyádh, i. App. lxxiii.
- Hamadán, town near Granada, ii. 306.
- Hamám Ibn Ghálib Al-farazdak (Abú Firás), poet, i. 189, 466.
- Hamámu-l-albíri (the baths of the natives of, or originally from, Elbira), in Cordova, i. 206, 486.
- sh-shatarah (the bath of Ash-shatarah), in Seville, i. 60.
- Hamásah, a collection of poems by At-táyí (Abú Temám), commented upon by Yúsuf Ibn Suleymán, i. 197, 497.
- Hamdah, a poetess of Granada, i. 351.
- Hamdán, tribe of, settle in Spain, ii. 26.
- Ibn Tha'leb, i. 332.
- Hamdín Ibn Mōhammed Ibn Hamdín (Abú Ja'far), surnamed Al-mansúr-billah, King of Cordova, i. 202, 483, ii. 517.
- Hamdúnah, daughter of Ziryáb, the musician, ii. 432.
- Hamekí, a musical instrument used by the Berbers, i. 59, 366.
- Hámid Ibn Mohammed Ibn Yahya, Kádí of Cordova, ii. 106.
- Ibn Samjún (Abú Bekr), naturalist, i. 92, 391.
- Hamís Ibn Zabrah, a Jewish mathematician, i. 385.
- Hammúd Ibn Maymún Ibn Ahmed, &c., Ibn Idrís, ancestor of the Bení Hammúd, arrives in Cordova, i. 396.
- Hamzah Ibn-u-l-hasan Al-isfahání, history of Ispahán written by, i. 178.
- Handalis*, meaning of the word, i. 322.
- Hand-writing, of the Spanish Moslems, i. 143.
- Hansh Ibn 'Abdillah As-san'ání, tábi' or follower, enters Spain with Músa Ibn Nosseyr, i. 283, 372, 536, App. xlix; ii. 3; lays the foundations of the mosque of Saragossa, 4; of Cordova, i. 226, ii. 4.
- Harakah, daughter of An-no'mán Ibn Al-mundhir, King of Hírah, verses by, ii. 418.
- Harb Ibn Umeyyah, i. 330.
- Harísah (Ariza?), castle of, taken, ii. 457.
- Háarith, son of Sa'íd, revolts with his father, ii. 443.
- Haríz Ibn 'Okkashah, general of Al-mámún, King of Toledo, i. 125; his adventure with Alfonso, 126.
- Harmalah Ibn 'Amrán, ii. 9.
- Harrán, a city of Mesopotamia, the ancient Charra, i. 150.
- Harrat Abí Sarrah, now Molina, near Seville, i. 361.
- Harzún, Lord of Xerez, ii. 230.
- Hasan Al-hajjám or Al-hojjám, of the Bení Idrís of Africa, is put to death, ii. 144, 466.
- Al-laghúwí (Abú 'Abdah), historian, ii. 200.
- Ibn 'Abdi-l-'azíz Al-kenání, rebellion of, ii. 85.
- Ibn Ahmed Al-fádhel, the Idrísite, visits Spain, ii. 145.
- Ibn Mohammed, i. 235.
- Ibn Malek Ibn Abí 'Abdah, ii. 190.
- Ibn Mohammed, the Idrísite, visits Spain, ii. 145.
- , son of Yahya, the theologian, ii. 487.
- or Al-hasan Ibn Yahya Ibn Hammúd, surnamed Al-mustanser-billah, third of the Bení Idrís of Malaga, i. 333, ii. 246, App. xviii.
- Ibn Yesár Al-basrí (Abú Sa'íd), theologian, ii. 170.
- Ibn Ziryáb, ii. 432.
- Hasdáy Ibn Bashrútt, a Jewish physician, i. App. xxv, xxvi.
- Háshim Ibn 'Abdi-l-'azíz, general of 'Abdullah, Sul-tán of Cordova, i. 132, ii. 439.

- Haurá, mother of Hishám I. of Cordova, ii. 424.
 —, mother of Mohammed III. of Cordova, ii. App. xiv.
- Hawánitu-r-ríhán (the shops of [the sellers of] sweet basil), one of the suburbs of Cordova, i. 206.
- Hawar Maumal (the cypress plantation of Maumal), why so called, i. 352.
- Hawárah, a Berber tribe, i. App. lx.
- Hawázen, family of, where established, ii. 29.
- Hayát Ibn Rejá At-temímí, ii. 7.
- Haywah [Hayát] Ibn Mulábis (or Mulámis) Al-hadhramí, ii. 18, 399; rebellion of, 415, 419, 420.
 — Ibn Al-walíd Al-yahssobí, ii. 422.
- Hayyán Ibn Khalf Ibn Huseyn Ibnu Hayyán (Abú Merwán), historian, account of his life and writings, i. 310; his history of Mohammedan Spain, 38, 187, 193, 338, 463, 471—of the Bení Abí 'A'mir, ii. 178; quotations from those works, i. 25, 286, ii. 265; extracts from his history of the Bení Umeyyah, 437—459.
- Ibn Abí Hoblah Ad-dárá (Abú-n-nadhar), i. 283, 536, App. xlix; ii. 2, 395.
- , mauli of 'Abdu-r-rahmán I. of Cordova, i. 310.
- Házem Ibn Mohammed Ibn Hasan Ibn Házem Al-ansárá Al-kartajéní (Abú-l-hasan), his poem entitled Makssúrah, i. Pref. xix, 114; badly described by Casiri, 405; by whom commented upon, ib., and ii. 537.
- Hazraj, tribe of, ii. App. lxvii.
- Hejáj Ibn Al-'okaylí, ii. 106.
- Helál, tribe, ii. App. lxv, lxix.
- Ibn Hamidán Ibn Mukaddam, chief of the tribe of Al-khalatt, ii. App. lxxiii, lxxiv.
- Ibn Mohammed Ibn Mardamísh (Abú-l-kamar); submits to the Almohades, ii. 520, App. lix.
- Ibnu-t-tofayl Al-'abdárá, ii. 71.
- Henriquez (Pedro), taken prisoner, ii. 541.
- Herando (Ferdinand IV. of Castile), lays siege to Al-gesiras, ii. 348.
- Herkiles (Hercules), remains of his buildings in Spain, i. 77.
- Hems (Emessa), name given by the Arabs to Seville, i. 49.
- Heskúrah, tribe and town of Africa, ii. App. lxxii.
- Heylenah, town, ii. 526.
- Hibán, ii. 10.
- Himyar, descendants from, settle in Spain, ii. 28.
- Hindah, ii. 118.
- Hishám I., surnamed Ar-rodha (the amiable) and Al-'ádíl (the just), reign of, ii. 97—101.
 — II. of Cordova, tenth of the Bení Umeyyah, surnamed Al-muyyed-billah, i. 219; succeeds his father Al-hakem II., ii. 175; is dethroned by Mohammed Al-muhdí, 225, 488; restored to power, 494; put to death by Suleymán, 229; various opinions respecting his death, 503.
 — III. of Cordova, surnamed Al-mu'tadd-billah, reign of, ii. 243, 249.
 —, son of Al-mámún of Toledo, supposed to have succeeded his father in the kingdom, ii. 504.
 — Al-mus'hafí, ii. 161.
 — Al-washkí (from Huesca) Abú-l-walíd, surnamed Al-filosóf (the philosopher), i. 150, 431.
 — Ibn 'Abdi-l-'azíz, Wizír, ii. 432.
 — Ibn 'Abdi-l-jabbár, of the house of Umeyyah, is put to death, ii. 486.
 — Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek, i. App. lxxxviii.
 — Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán, of the family of Umeyyah, is appointed governor of Seville, ii. 450; is sent against the Muwallads, 454.
 — Ibn 'Adhrah Al-fehrí, account of, ii. 421; his rebellion, ib.
 — Ibn 'A'mir, i. 176.
 — Ibn Hudheyl, is sent on an embassy to Constantinople, ii. 138.
 — Ibn Mohammed, of the house of Umeyyah, appointed governor of Seville, ii. 455; is put to death by his brother's orders, 461.
 —, son of Suleymán, Sultán of Cordova, makes war against Al-muhdí, ii. 492.
 — Ibn 'Orwah, ii. 109.
 — Ibn Suleymán Ibn An-násir, of the family of Umeyyah, revolts against Mohammed II., ii. 226; is put to death, ib.
- Hisn Al-munshát or Al-muneshát, fortress near Granada, ii. 379, 542.
- Amarina, town on the Guadalete, ii. 454.
- Andushar (Anduxar), in the province of Jaen, ii. 446.
- Ashad or Ashd, ii. 453.
- Bejj (Bexixar), town, taken by the Christians, ii. 350.
- Beláy (Espeluy?), in the kingdom of Cordova, ii. 438; taken by 'Omar Ibn Hafssún, 451; recovered by the Sultán's forces, 452.
- Gháfek, a castle in the territory of Cordova, inhabited by the tribe of Gháfek, i. 42, 205, 213, 345, 485.

- Hisn Ghormáj (San Estevan de Gormaz), castle of, rebuilt, ii. 160.
- Jaliánah (Julina?), i. 46.
- Jeríshah, fortress in the province of Jaen, ii. 443, 446.
- Karkabah, fortress in Andalusia, ii. 448.
- Kazdeyrah, a fortress in the province of Elvira, ii. 444.
- Lecant (Alicante), ii. 441.
- Múláh (Mula), in the province of Murcia, i. 70.
- Nášhir (Nixar), near Almeria, ii. 447.
- Shekúbis, castle of, ii. 521.
- Shinsh, a fortress near Almeria, i. 53.
- Shírúr, castle taken by Sancho II. of Navarre, ii. App. xxvii.
- Shubiles (Jubiles), near Granada, ii. 457.
- Tishkar (Tiscar), town, taken by the Christians, ii. 350.
- Torash, fortress, taken by Ya'kub Al-mansúr, ii. App. lxiv.
- Torosh (Torrox), on the coast of Granada, ii. 453.
- Wakshshah, town, taken by Sancho II. of Navarre, ii. App. xxvii.
- Webdeh, now Huete, ii. 437, 441.
- Zahrah, now Peñafior, near Seville, i. 361.
- Hisnu-l-bónah, castle near Lorca, i. 91.
- -l-faraj (now San Juan de Alfarache), near Seville, i. App. x.
- -l-mudowwar (the round castle), now Almodovar del Rio, on the Guadalquivir, i. 42, 205, 213, 345, 485.
- Hispan. See Isbahán.
- Hiyyán, ii. 10.
- Hiyyi Ibn Yoktán, epistle of, i. 38.
- Hobáhib, fire of, meaning of the expression, i. 172.
- Hobeyrah Al-fezári, attacks Constantinople, i. 174.
- Hodheyfah Ibnu-l-ahwas Al-kaysí, governor of Spain, administration of, ii. 36.
- Hojr (Hajr), one of the ancestors of 'Amru-l-kays, ii. 425.
- Hondhalah Ibn Sefwán Al-kelbí, attacks and defeats the Berbers, ii. 41, 51.
- Honey, the Jew, spoils the water-clocks of Toledo, i. 82, 385.
- Ibn Is'hák, i. App. xxiv.
- Hosám or Husám Ibn Dhirár Abú-l-khattár Al-kelbí, governor of Spain, i. 526, ii. 45; distributes lands to the Arabian settlers, 46.
- Hosámu-d-daulah Ibn Razín ('Abdu-l-malek?), King of As-sahlah, ii. App. xxxii. See also 'Obeydullah Abú Merwán.
- Hosr, a district near Cairwán, i. 478.
- Hossán Ibn An-no'mán, i. App. xxxv, liv.
- Ibn Malek Ibn Hání (Abú 'Obeydah), poet, ii. 190.
- Ibn Málik Ibn Abí 'Abdah Al-kelbí (Abú 'Abdah), ii. 66, 459.
- Ibn Samh As-sadáyí, ii. 10.
- Hoto (Otho), Emperor of Germany, sends an embassy to 'Abdu-r-rahmán III. of Cordova, ii. 139.
- Howárah, tribe of, ii. 255.
- Hudheyl, tribe of, where settled, ii. 22.
- or Hadhíl Ibn Merwán Ibn Razín, account of, ii. 507.
- Ibn As-samíl, ii. 83, 419.
- Ibn Hishám, general of Al-hakem II. of Cordova, defeats the Castilians, ii. 159.
- Ibn Razín, Lord of As-sahlah and Albarracin, i. 378.
- Huelma, a village in the Alpuxarras, i. 354.
- Huete. See Webdeh.
- Hugo. See Ukoh.
- Husámu-d-daulah. See Hosámu-d-daulah.
- Huseyn, tribe of, ii. 29.
- , Páshá of Aleppo, execution of, i. 306.
- Ibn 'Abdi-l-'azíz Al-fehrí (Abú 'Alí), his commentary upon the Mustafí, i. 471.
- Ibn 'Abdillah Ibn Síná (or Avicenna), philosopher, i. App. xv.
- Ibn 'Abdi-s-sellám, ii. 535.
- Ibn Abí Tálib, ii. 21, 399.
- Ibn Al-walíd (Abú-l-kásim Ibnu-l-'arif), poet, ii. 190, 483.
- Ibn 'A'ssim, his life of Al-mansúr, i. 187, 464.
- Ibn Jobeyr, ii. 22.
- Ibn Mohammed Ibn Ahmed, historian, i. Pref. xxiv.
- Ibn Mohammed Al-múrí, is appointed governor of Seville, ii. 449.
- (or Al-huseyn) Ibn Yahya Ibn Sa'íd Al-ansárí, rebellion of, ii. 84; his death, 85, 89.
- 'Ibádah Ibnu-s-sámah. See 'Obádah.
- Ibn 'Abbád. See 'Abbád, Isma'íl, Mohammed I., and Mohammed II.
- 'Abdi-l-'azíz, Lord of Murcia, is dethroned, ii. 511.

- Ibn 'Abdi-l-barr, general of 'Abdullah, Sultán of Cordova, ii. 453. See also Yúsuf.
- 'Abdi-l-hakem. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán and Mohammed Ibn 'Abdillah.
- 'Abdi-l-hakk Al-khazrejí (Abú Ja'far), historian, his history of the Khalifs, i. Pref. xxii, 193; extracts from, App. xlii; ii. App. xxii.
- 'Abdi-l-jabbár. See Báb Ibn 'Abdi-l-jabbár.
- 'Abdi-l-málik, i. 223.
- 'Abdi-l-mu'anem. See Abú 'Abdillah.
- 'Abdi-l-walí Al-mayúrkí, ii. 332.
- 'Abdi-r-rabbihi. See Ahmed Ibn Mohammed.
- 'Abdi-shelb (Dhú-l-wizárateyn), i. 65.
- 'Abdún. See 'Abdu-l-mejíd and Mohammed.
- 'Abdus, i. 178.
- Abí 'Abdah. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn Habíb, 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn Hamdún, Ahmed Ibn Mohammed, Habíb, Hasan, Hossan Ibn Málik, 'Obeydullah Ibn Mohammed, 'Othmán, and Salám Ibn 'Alí.
- Abí 'A'mir Ibni-l-faraj, i. 152, 432.
- Abí Hafss. See Abú Hafss, Abú 'Imrán, Abú Mohammed, Abú Yúsuf, Ibráhim Ibn Isma'íl, and Yahya.
- Abí 'Isa. See Mohammed Ibn 'Abdillah.
- Abí Kháled favours the accession of Ibnu-l-ahmar, ii. 340, 343.
- Abí Leylah At-tojibí, i. App. lxxv.
- Abí-l-jawwád. See 'Abdu-l-malek.
- Abí-l-khissál or Khassál. See 'Abdullah and Mohammed.
- Abí Nes'ah. See 'Othmán.
- Abí 'Obeyd, ii. 488.
- Abí 'Obeydah. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn Habíb.
- Abí Ossaybí'ah, his lives of the Arabian physicians, extracts from, i. App. i—xxvii.
- Abí Sheybah, i. App. viii. See also Abú Bekr, 'Omar, and Mohammed Ibn 'Othmán.
- Abí Táhir. See Ahmed.
- Abí Wad'ah, ii. 494, 497.
- Abí Yaghalús. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán.
- Abí Zara'. See 'Alí Ibn Mohammed.
- Adh'ha. See Mohammed.
- Ad'ham. See 'Obeydullah.
- Ajdar. See 'Abdu-l-kerím.
- Akhyal. See 'Ayyásh.
- Al-afttas. See 'Omar, Mohammed Ibn 'Abdillah, and Mohammed Ibn Moslemah.
- Al-háj. See Mohammed Ibn 'Ala.
- Ibn Alisa'. See Alyasa'.
- Al-júzí. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn 'Alí.
- 'Alkamah, historian, ii. 262. See also 'Abdu-rahmán.
- 'Ammár. See Mohammed.
- 'Amrán, writer on botany, i. 388.
- 'Amrún. See 'Othmán.
- Arkam. See Abú 'A'mir.
- Ar-robertín. See 'Alí.
- 'Asákir, theologian, ii. 4.
- Ashkilúlah. See 'Abdullah Ibn Ibráhim and Ibráhim.
- Ash-sháliyyah. See 'Obeydullah Ibn Umeyyah.
- 'A'ssim, ii. 154.
- 'Attáf Al-'okaylí. See Is'hák.
- 'Attiyah. See 'Abdu-l-hakk Ibn Ghálib.
- 'Aumas, a Christian count, advice given by, to Shanshúl, ii. 489; death of, 490.
- 'Ayádh or 'Iyádh, King of Murcia, ii. 112, 314, 334, 519.
- 'A'yeshah. See Dáwúd.
- Aymen. See Mohammed Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek.
- 'Azzár or 'Az-zárá, historian, ii. 343, 533.
- Bájeh. See Mohammed Ibn Yahya.
- Bakít. See Abú Zeyd.
- Bakiyyah, ii. 153.
- Barsis, place so called, near Carmona, ii. 454.
- Bartíl, chief of the Muwallads, marches to the assistance of Sa'íd Ibn Khanjar, ii. 446.
- Bashír. See Mohammed.
- Bassál, writer on botany and agriculture, i. 118, 408.
- Battál, botanist, i. 408.
- Battúttah. See Mohammed Ibn 'Abdillah.
- Bedr, poet, ii. 203.
- Besám or Bessám. See 'Alí.
- Biurak, Wizír of Abú Mohammed Al-báyesí, puts his sovereign to death, ii. App. lxxiv.
- Bokennah, Wizír of the Bení Idrís, ii. 246, 249.
- Borgúth. See Mohammed Ibn 'Omar.
- Búján. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán.
- Busheyr. See 'Omar.
- Dahín, i. 234.
- Darastuyah, ii. 464.
- Darráj Al-kasttálí. See Ahmed Ibn Mohammed and Mohammed Ibn Mohammed.
- Deyham, ii. 473.
- Deylam, ii. 473.

- Ibn Dhahan, i. App. lxxvii.
 — Dhakwán, ii. 221, 492.
 — Dhari, ii. 490.
 — Dhí-n-nún. See Al-fat'h, As-samh Ibn 'Omar, Isma'il Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán, Kásim Ibn Mutref, Músa, Mutref Ibn Músa, Suleymán, Yahya I., Yahya II., and Yahya Ibn Músa.
 — Dih'yah, i. 337, 408. See also Abú-l-khattáb.
 — Doreyd or Dureyd. See Abú Bekr.
 — Faraj. See Ahmed and 'Amru.
 — Farkún. See Ahmed Ibn Suleymán.
 — Feyrroh or Ferro. See Kásim.
 — Fortún Al-kasawí. See Mohammed Ibn Lob.
 — Ghálib. See Temám.
 — Ghániyyah. See 'Abdullah Ibn Is'hák, 'Abdullah Ibn Mohammed, Al-hasan Ibn Is'hák, 'Alí, 'Alí Ibn Is'hák, 'Alí Ibn Mohammed Az-zobeyr, 'Alí Ibn Yahya, Al-mansúr Ibn Is'hák, Ibráhím Ibn Mohammed, Jabbárah, Mohammed Ibn 'Alí, 'Omar Ibn Is'hák, and Yahya Ibn Is'hák Al-mayúrkí.
 — Gharún. See Abú-l-ghamr.
 — Ghattús, i. 143; copy of the Korán written by, ib.
 — Ghází, i. 247.
 — Hábil, i. 481. See also 'Abdu-l-malek and 'Abdu-r-rahmán.
 — Hábil. See 'A'mir, Hábil, Mundhir, and 'Omar.
 — Hábish (Hobeysh?) Abú-l-kásim, i. 480.
 — Hadíd, i. App. xxx.
 — Hafssún. See 'Omar.
 — Hajar, ii. 11.
 — Hajjáj. See Ibráhím.
 — Hajr. See Ahmed.
 — Hamdín. See Hamdín and Mohammed.
 — Hamdís, the Sicilian, poet, i. 506.
 — Hamdún, governor of Tiscar, ii. 535. See also Ja'far and Sawwár.
 — Hammúd. See 'Alí, Al-kásim, and Yahya.
 — Hání. See Hossán, 'Obeydah Ibn Hossán, and Mohammed Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán.
 — Hárith, ii. 112.
 — Hárún. See Abú Ja'far.
 — Hasdáy. See Yúsuf Ibn Ahmed.
 — Haukal. See Mohammed.
 — Haut-illah, ii. 312.
 — Haytham. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn Is'hák.
 — Hayyi. See Al-huseyn Ibn Ahmed.
 — Házem. See Házem Ibn Mohammed.
 — Hazm. See 'Abdu-l-wahháb, 'Abdu-l-wahháb Ibn Ahmed, Abú-l-fadhl, Ahmed, and 'Alí Ibn Ahmed.
 Ibn Helál, i. 189.
 — Hobeysh. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn Mohammed.
 — Húd. See 'Abdu-l-malek, Abú Bekr, Abú Is'hák, Abú-l-hasan, Abú Neját Sálím, Ahmed, 'Alí Ibn Yúsuf, Mohammed Ibn 'Alí, Mohammed Ibn Yúsuf, Suleymán Ibn Ahmed, and Yúsuf Ibn Suleymán.
 — Hudheyl. See 'Alí Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán and Sa'id.
 — Humushk. See Ibráhím.
 — 'Isa, ii. 266.
 — Is'hák. See Is'hák Ibn Salámah.
 — 'Ittáf. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán.
 — 'Iyádh Al-yahssobí. See 'Iyádh and Ibn 'Ayádh.
 — Iyás. See Mohammed.
 — 'Iyásh, i. 66.
 — Jábir, author of travels in the East, i. 424. See also Mohammed.
 — Jámi', i. App. xxx. See also Abú Mohammed, Ibn Abí Is'hák, 'Abdullah Ibn Is'hák, and Abú-l-'ola.
 — Jarír At-tábarí, historian, i. 180.
 — Jarmún, chief of the tribe of Sufyán, ii. App. lxxiii.
 — Jazzi-l-kebí. See Abú Bekr and Mohammed Ibn Mohammed.
 — Jeháf, Kádí of Valencia, put to death by the Cid, ii. 528, App. xxxix.
 — Jehwar, ii. 288. See also Jehwar, 'Abdu-l-malek, 'Abdu-l-malek Ibn Mohammed, and 'Abdu-l-wadúd.
 — Jesúr, historian, ii. 200.
 — Jobeyr. See Mohammed Ibn Ahmed, 'Abdu-s-sellám, and Ahmed.
 — Jodeyr. See Músa Ibn Mohammed.
 — Joljol. See Suleymán Ibn Hossán.
 — Jorj. See 'Abdu-l-wahháb and Mohammed Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán.
 — Júdí. See Sa'id Ibn Suleymán.
 — Kádís. See Yúsuf.
 — Kadús. See Abú 'Abdillah.
 — Kalmún. See Mohammed Ibn 'Abdi-s-sellám.
 — Kannún. See Al-hasan.
 — Kasí. See Ahmed Ibnu-l-huseyn.
 — Kásim. See Kásim.
 — Katání, governor of Guadalajara, defeated by the Christians and wounded, ii. App. xxvi.
 — Kattan. See 'Abdu-l-malek.

- Ibn Khákán. See Al-fat'h.
 — Khalaf, ii. 300.
 — Khaldún. See Abú Moslem, 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn Mohammed, Karíbah, Koreyb, Kháled, and 'Omar.
 — Khalífah. See Mohammed.
 — Khalíl, ii. 154.
 — Khamír, ii. 450.
 — Khassíb, ii. 448.
 — Khátimah or Khatímah. See Ahmed Ibn 'Alí.
 — Khattáb. See 'Azíz Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek.
 — Khazrún or Khazerún. See Al-hajjáj.
 — Khordádbah, geographer, i. Pref. xxv, 326, 538.
 — Komáshah. See 'Alí.
 — Kotebah. See 'Abdullah Ibn Moslem.
 — Lob (Abenlope), account of, ii. 440. See also Lob Ibn Mohammed and Mohammed Ibn Lob.
 — Lubábah. See Mohammed Ibn 'Omar and Mohammed Ibn Yahya.
 — Máduyah, the Christian, lends his assistance to Suleymán of Cordova, ii. 491, 492.
 — Mái-s-samá. See 'Obádah Ibn 'Abdillah.
 — Málík Ar-ro'ayní, i. 43.
 — Malkún (Abú Is'hák), i. 48.
 — Mardanísh. See 'Abdullah, Helál Ibn Mohammed, Mohammed Ibn Mohammed, Mohammed Ibn Sa'd, Sa'd, Yúsuf Ibn Sa'd, and Zeyyán.
 — Marzúk. See Mohammed Ibn Abí 'Abdillah and Ahmed.
 — Masarráh, ii. 149.
 — Mas'úd, i. 176.
 — Maujúl, death of, ii. 456.
 — Maumel, i. App. v.
 — Maymún. See Abú 'Abdillah, 'Abdullah, 'Alí Ibn 'Isa, 'Isa, Lob, and Yahya.
 — Misha'l, the Jew, is sent on an embassy to Al-mu'tamed, King of Seville, ii. App. xxxii.
 — Mokbil, the vase of, meaning of the expression, i. 170.
 — Mokéná Al-lishbóní, poet, i. 100.
 — Moklah. See Mohammed Ibn 'Alí.
 — Moslemah, Sáhibu-sh-shortah of Suleymán of Cordova, ii. 493.
 — Mu'ayn, ii. 5.
 — Mufarraǵ. See Abú-l-kásim, Ahmed Ibn Mohammed, Ahmed Ibn Yahya, Al-hasan Ibn Ahmed, Al-hasan Ibn Mohammed, Mohammed Ibn Ahmed, and Nábit.
 — Mugheyth. See 'Abdu-l-kerím, 'Abdu-l-malek, 'Abdu-l-wáhed, and 'Abdu-r-rahmán, Ibn Mughíth, poet of the court of Al-hakem II., ii. 170. See also Al-'ala.
 — Muhallib. See Khalíl and Sa'id.
 — Munkid, ii. 323.
 — Mustanah. See Sa'id Ibn Walíd.
 — Mutáhir (Abú Ja'far), i. 473.
 — Náfi', ii. 3.
 — Núh, a Berber chief, put to death by Al-mu'tamed, ii. 504.
 — Odh'ha. See Mohammed.
 — 'Ofeyr, ii. 448.
 — 'Omar, ii. 6.
 — 'Orfah, i. 247.
 — 'Osfúr. See 'Alí Ibn Múmen.
 — Rabáh. See 'Alí.
 — Radmír (Alfonso I. of Aragon), i. 127; conquests of, ii. 309.
 — Rakík, ii. 228.
 — Rashíd. See Mohammed Ibn 'Omar.
 — Rashík. See 'Abdullah and Al-hasan.
 — Razár or Zazár, the Jew, his conference with Ibnu-l-khattíb, ii. 533.
 — Razek, i. App. xvii. See also Abú Mohammed.
 — Razín. See 'Abbúd, 'Abdu-l-málík, Hudheyh, and Yahya.
 — Refá'h, i. App. lxxx.
 — Rejá At-temímí, i. 536.
 — Romáhis. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán.
 — Romeylah. See Ahmed.
 — Roshd. See 'Abdullah and Mohammed Ibn Ahmed.
 — Sábirah, i. 344.
 — Sa'dah. See Abú 'Abdillah.
 — Sáhíbi-s-salát. See 'Abdullah Ibn Yahya, 'Abdu-l-malek Ibn Mohammed, Ahmed, 'Alí Ibn Mohammed, Ibráhím, Mohammed Ibn Mohammed, and 'Obeydullah Ibn Mohammed.
 — Sahlún, ii. 200.
 — Sá'id. See Sá'id Ibn Ahmed.
 — Sa'id. See 'Abdu-l-málík, 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn Abí Merwán, Ahmed Ibn 'Abdi-l-málík, 'Alí Ibn Músa, Ja'far Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek, and Músa Ibn Mohammed.
 — Salámah, i. 509.
 — Samádeh. See Mohammed.
 — Sára. See 'Abdullah Ibn Mohammed.
 — Serráj. See Abú-l-huseyn.
 — Seyid, the geometrician, i. App. xvi.
 — Shabarkah, chief of the Muwallads of Seville, takes up arms against the Arabs, ii. 450.

- Ibn Sháhín. See Ahmed.
 — Shákír. See Khayr.
 — Shálíb, the Jew, is sent as ambassador to Almu'tamed of Seville, ii. 252.
 — Shammásah, i. 536.
 — Shás, i. 247.
 — Sheyrí. See Abú Hafss.
 — Shikhnah. See Mohammed.
 — Sho'ayb, ii. App. lxxx.
 — Shoheyd. See 'Abdu-l-malek, Ahmed Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek, Ahmed Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek Ibn Ahmed, and Shoheyd.
 — Shohnah. See Mohammed.
 — Siális, the Christian, conditions obtained by, from Suleymán of Cordova, ii. 496.
 — Sídah. See 'Alí Ibn Isma'íl.
 — Síná (Avicenna). See Huseyn Ibn 'Abdillah.
 — Sukálah. See Yahya.
 — Tafertás, the Almoravide, is appointed governor of Mallorca, ii. App. xlviii.
 — Táhir. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn Mohammed, Ahmed Ibn Is'hák, and Mohammed.
 — Taríf, i. 184.
 — Tofayl. See Mohammed Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek.
 — Túján. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán.
 — Umeyyah. See 'Abdu-l-malek Ibn 'Abdillah.
 — Wadhdáh. See 'Abdullah Ibn Mohammed and Mohammed.
 — Wáfíd, i. App. xvi.
 — Wahb, governor of Huete, ii. App. xxx.
 — Wahbún. See 'Abdu-l-jelíl.
 — Wahíb. See Málík.
 — Wa'lah At-temímí, ii. App. iii.
 — Wánúdín. See Mohammed Ibn Yúsuf.
 — Wásel Al-hamawí, his abridgement of the Kitábul-aghání, i. 480.
 — Wazír. See Abú 'Abdillah and Seddaray.
 — Ya'ísh, Lord of Toledo, ii. 504.
 — Yakhún, ii. App. xliii.
 — Yámin, death of, ii. 456.
 — Ya'ysh, ii. 342.
 — Yúnas, the sailor, i. 235. See also Abú Sa'id and 'Alí Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán.
 — Zaraká, ii. 300.
 — Zendakah. See Mohammed Ibnu-l-walíd.
 — Zeyd Al-askaf (the bishop), astronomical works of, i. 198, 481.
 — Zeydún. See Abú-l-walíd and Abú Bekr.
 — Zeyyán. See Músa Ibn 'Othmán.
 — Zohr. See 'Abdullah Ibn Mohammed, 'Abdu-l-malek Ibn Abí-l-'ala, 'Abdu-l-malek Ibn Mohammed, 'Abdu-l-málik, Merwán, Mohammed Ibn Abí Merwán, Mohammed Ibn 'Abdillah; Mohammed Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek, and Mohammed Ibn Merwán.
 Ibn Zomrok. See Mohammed Ibn Yúsuf.
 — Zubeyr. See Ahmed Ibn Ibráhím.
 Ibnu Bashkúwál. See Khalf Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek, &c.
 — -d-dabbágh. See Ibráhím.
 — Hayyán. See Hayyán.
 — Khaldún. See Ibn Khaldún.
 — -l-abbár. See 'Abdullah Ibn Abí Bekr and Mohammed Ibn 'Abdillah.
 — -l-'abbás Al-mubarrad, i. 184.
 — -l-aghlab, governor of Africa under the 'Abbasides, proposition made to, ii. 452.
 — -l-ahmar. See Mohammed Ibn Yúsuf.
 — -l-ahnaf. See Al-'abbás.
 — -l-'arabí. See Mohammed Ibn 'Abdillah and Mohammed Ibn 'Alí.
 — -l-'aríf, poet, ii. 201, 203. See also Ahmed Ibn Mohammed, Ahmed Ibn Mohammed Ibn Músa, and Huseyn Ibnu-l-walíd.
 — -l-'askár, i. 403.
 — -l-athír. See Isma'íl Ibn Ahmed.
 — -l-attás, governor of Bugia, ii. App. lxxiv.
 — -l-awam, his treatise of agriculture cited, i. 387.
 — -l-babúj. See Alfonso IX.
 — -l-bajileyn, chief of the Muwallads of Seville, takes up arms against the Arabs, ii. 450.
 — -l-bana. See Abú Ja'far.
 — -l-beyttar. See Mohammed Abú 'Abdillah.
 — -l-eshterkúní. See Mohammed Ibn Yúsuf.
 — -l-faradhí. See 'Abdullah Ibn Mohammed.
 — -l-faraj. See Abú 'A'mir.
 — -l-faras, surnamed Al-mohr, rises in Africa, ii. App. lxxviii; gives himself out as the Mahdí, lxxix; is taken and put to death, ib.
 — -l-fayyádh. See Ahmed Ibn Sa'id.
 — -l-ghalíth. See 'Omar Ibn Sho'ayb.
 — -l-haddád. See Mohammed and Mohammed Abú Bekr.
 — -l-háj. See Mohammed and Mohammed Ibn 'Ala.
 — -l-hajáb, ii. 33. See also 'Obeydullah.
 — -l-hajjám. See Mohammed Ibn 'Alí.
 — -l-hakem, i. Pref. xvii.
 — -l-hakím. See Mohammed Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán and Abú-l-barakát.
 — -l-haytham, his works, i. 187; account of, 464.
 — -l-hejáj. See 'Abdullah and Ibráhím.

- Ibnu-l-hijári. See 'Abdullah Ibn Ibráhím.
- -l-himárah. See 'Alí.
- -l-imám. See 'Alí Ibn 'Abdi-l-'azíz.
- -l-jadd. See Abú 'Amru and Abú Bekr.
- -l-jalíkí. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn Merwán.
- -l-járúd, his work on traditions, i. 181.
- -l-jerráh (Abú 'Obeydah), i. 176.
- -l-jezzár, geographer, i. Pref. xxv, 75. See also Ahmed.
- -l-kádhí. See Ahmed Ibn Mohammed.
- -l-kásim. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán.
- -l-kattá'. See 'Alí Ibn Ja'far.
- -l-khattíb. See Mohammed Ibn 'Abdillah.
- -l-khayyát Al-kortobí, poet, ii. 233.
- -l-kitt. See Ahmed Ibn Umeyyah.
- -l-kobtornah. See Abú Bekr.
- -l-kossayrah. See Mohammed Ibn Suleymán.
- -l-kúttiyah. See Mohammed Ibn 'A'mir.
- -l-lebbánah. See 'Isa.
- -l-lúshí Al-yahssobí. See Mohammed Ibn Mohammed.
- -l-mo'allem (Abú Yahya), i. 32.
- -l-muffis (Abú-l-hasan), i. 189, 467.
- -l-muhájir At-tojibí. See 'Abdu-r-rahmán Ibn 'Abdi-l-'azíz.
- -l-muhlib. See Yezíd.
- -l-munhá, ii. 544.
- -l-múl. See 'Attík.
- -l-mus'hafí, general of Al-mansúr, ii. 211.
- -l-mutarrezí. See Nássir Ibn Abí-l-mukárim.
- -l-muthanna. See Abú-l-motref.
- -l-wakshí, i. 150.
- -l-wardí, geographer, i. 313.
- -l-yábisah, physician, i. App. xxvi.
- Ma'n, i. 136. See Mohammed Ibn Samádeh.
- -r-rabíb At-temímí. See Abú 'Alí.
- -r-rakík, historian, ii. 228, 400.
- -r-remímí. See Mohammed Ibn 'Abdillah.
- -r-rúmiyyah. See Ahmed Ibn Mohammed.
- -s-saffár. See Mohammed.
- Sa'id. See Ibn Sa'id.
- Samh or Samah. See Asbagh.
- -s-samínah. See Yahya Ibn Yahya.
- -s-sáyegh. See Mohammed Ibn Yahya.
- -s-selím. See Mundhir Ibn Ibráhím.
- -s-serráj. See Ibn Serráj.
- -s-seyrafí. See Yahya.
- sh-shahíd, chief of the tribe of Hentétah, ii. App. lxxiii, lxxiv.
- -sh-sharas, ii. 488.
- Ibnu-s-síd. See 'Abdullah Ibn Mohaimmed.
- -s-sídah. See Ibn Sídah.
- -t-taráwah, i. 37, 197.
- -t-tawíl, ii. 266.
- -t-taylasán. See 'Abdullah Ibn Ahmed.
- -t-tofayl. See Helál.
- -z-zakkák, i. 67.
- Ibráhím, son of Yúsuf Ibn Táshefín, ii. 304.
- (Abú Is'hák), fourth of the Almoravides, is put to death by 'Abdu-l-múmen, ii. 309.
- Al-khalúttí (read Al-khalwattí), i. 331.
- Al-maussilí, musician, ii. 116, 118.
- Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán Al-kaysí (Abú Is'hák), i. 338.
- Ibn Ahmed Ibn Aghlab, Amír of Eastern Africa, ii. 468.
- Ibn Ahmed Ash-sheybání Ar-riyádhí, ii. 149; his life and writings, 468.
- Ibn 'Alí Al-hosrí (Abú Is'hák), poet, i. 196, 478, ii. 254.
- Ibn Ashkíuláh At-tojibí (Abú Is'hák), ii. 337, 531, App. lxxix.
- Ibn Dhamír, ii. 446, 459.
- Ibn Hajjáj or Ibnu-l-hejáj Al-lakhmí, rebellion of, ii. 439, 441; is taken prisoner, 450; is pardoned and appointed governor of Seville, 451, App. lx.
- Ibn Humushk, ii. 313; revolts, 315; expels the Almohades from Granada, ib.; defeats the troops sent against him, 316, 520; makes his submission, ib. and App. lviii.
- Ibn 'Isa, ii. 51.
- Ibn Isma'íl Ibn Abí Mohammed Ibn Abí Hafss, i. App. xviii.
- Ibn Isma'íl, son of the Sheikh Abú Hafss, ii. App. lxxiii.
- Ibnu-d-dabbágh Al-ishbilí (Abú Is'hák), poet, ii. 526.
- Ibn Mazín (Abú Is'hák), his commentary upon the Mowattá of Málik Ibn Ans, i. 180.
- Ibn Mohammed Al-iffilí (Abú-l-kásim), his commentary upon the poems of Al-mutennabí, i. 185.
- Ibn Mohammed Ibn Ghániyyah, ii. App. lxxiii.
- Ibn Mufarraj As-súrí, his fabulous history of Alexander the Great, i. 323.
- Ibn Sáhíbi-s-salát Al-welbaní (Abú Mohammed), i. 501.
- Ibn Shajrah, governor of Malaga, ii. 418.
- Ibnu-l-kásim Al-karawí, surnamed Ar-rakík,

- historian, what he says of the Galicians and Franks, i. 75, 380.
- Ibráhím Ibn Ya'kúb Al-kánemí (Abú Is'hák), poet, verses by, ii. 319.
- Ibn Yúsuf Ibn Táshefín, the last of the Almoravide Sultáns, i. 337.
- Idrís I. of Malaga, surnamed Al-mutayyed-billah, first of the Bení Idrís, ii. 238, 245, App. xvii.
- II. of Malaga, surnamed Al-'áli-billah, fourth of the Bení Idrís, ii. 246, App. xx.
- II. (Abú Dabbús), surnamed Al-wáthik-billah, last of the Almohades, ii. 325.
- I. (Abú-l-'ala Al-mámún), tenth of the Almohades, his rising at Seville, ii. 324; his reign, App. lxxiii.
- III. of Malaga, surnamed Al-muwaffek-billah, sixth of the Bení Idrís, reign of, ii. 247, App. xxi.
- Idrísí. See Mohammed Ibn Mohammed.
- 'Idwah, meaning of the word, i. 409, 513.
- 'Idwatu-l-andalusín (the side of the Andalusians), a quarter of the city of Fez, why so called, ii. 103.
- Illora, town, taken, ii. 375.
- Ilyá (Ælia or Jerusalem), taken and plundered by Ishbán, King of Spain, i. 25.
- Ilyán or Julian, governor of Ceuta, quarrels with Roderic, i. 255, 513; has an interview with Músa, 257, 264, 516; leads the Arabs into Spain, 270; advises Tárik, 277; assists Músa, 284, App. xliii; his various names, 509, 537; conjectures about his origin, rank, and the share he had in the conquest of Spain, 537.
- 'Imád, poetess, i. 167.
- 'Imádu-d-daulah. See 'Abdu-l-malek Ibn Húd.
- Iñigo, a Gothic general, i. 522.
- Inkilterrah. See Al-inkilterrah.
- 'Isa Ibn Az-zeyát, ii. 532.
- Ibn Maymún, Lord of Santa Maria, ii. 517, App. li.
- , brother of the Mahdí, ii. App. li.
- , son of Huseyn Al-ansárí, defeated by 'Abdu-rahmán I. of Cordova, ii. 421.
- , son of the Sheikh Abú Hafss, ii. App. lxvi.
- Ibn Ahmed Ar-rázi, historian, ii. 260, 446, 507.
- (Abú-l-'aysh), the Idrísíte, visits Spain, is killed in battle, ii. 145, 466.
- Ibn Dínár, theologian, i. 180; leaves Spain for the East, ii. 100.
- 'Isa Ibn Hanún or Kannún Ibn Mohammed Ibn Al-kásim, the Idrísíte, visits Spain, ii. 145.
- Ibn Ibráhím, ii. 51.
- Ibn Mohammed (Abú-l-asbagh), his history of Elvira, ii. 171.
- Ibn Musáwid, ii. 67.
- Ibn Muzáhim, marries Sára, a Gothic princess, ii. 415.
- Ibn Suleymán Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek Ibn 'Abdillah Ar-ro'ayní Ar-rondí, i. 421, 479.
- Ibn Yahya Al-leythí, ii. 123.
- Ibnu-l-lebbánah (Abú Bekr), Wizir and poet, i. 73, 379, ii. 250.
- Isbahán (Hispan), fabulous King of Spain, i. 24, 269.
- Isfahán (Ispahán), history of, by whom written, i. 178.
- Is'hák, the Muwallad, death of, ii. 456.
- Al-maussilí, musician, i. 411, ii. 117.
- Ibn Al-mundhir, Wizir and general of Al-hakem I. of Cordova, ii. 106.
- Ibn 'Attáf Al-'okaylí, rebellion of, ii. 444.
- Ibn 'Isa, ii. 51.
- Ibn Isma'il Al-mundáfi, poet, ii. 445.
- Ibn Marár Ash-sheybání (Abú 'Amru), i. 422.
- Ibn Mohammed Ibn Ghániyyah, ii. App. lxiii; becomes King of Mallorca, ib.
- Ibn Salámah Ibn Is'hák Al-leythí, his history of Raya or Malaga, i. 186, 463.
- 'Ishár, mother of 'Abdullah, Sultán of Cordova, ii. 132.
- Ishbán, son of Titus, gives his name to Spain (Ishbáníah), i. 24; takes Italica by storm, ib.; plunders Jerusalem, ib.; has a vision, 25; takes possession of Solomon's table, ib. and 46.
- Ishbílah (Seville), city, described, i. 55, 56, 363; taken by 'Abdu-l-'azíz Ibn Músa, 285; by the Almoravides, ii. 298; by the Almohades, App. l; by Ibn Húd, 328, App. lxxix; by Ibnu-l-ahmar, 343, App. lxxix; by Fernando III. of Castile, App. lxxx.
- Ishbónah. See Lishbónah.
- Ishkhander (Alexander the Great), visits Spain, i. 19; opens a canal between Africa and Spain, 20; erects a bridge over the Straits, 27; builds the city of Saragossa, 64; erects towers in the Canary Islands, 72.
- Islitín, the Almohade, ii. App. li; is executed by the command of 'Abdu-l-múmen, liii.

- Isma'íl, surnamed Sáhibu-l-jezirah, or the Lord of Algesiras, ii. 352.
- , son of Yúsus I. of Granada, ii. 357.
- I. (Abú-l-walíd), King of Granada, fifth of the Bení Nasr, reign of, ii. 348, 350.
- II. (Abú-l-walíd), King of Granada, ninth of the Bení Nasr, proclamation of, ii. 357; dethronement and death, 360.
- Ibn 'Abbád (Abú-l-kásim), makes war against Idrís I. of Malaga, ii. 245; is defeated and put to death, ib. and 249.
- Ibn Abán Ibn 'Abdi-l-'azíz Ibn Merwán, one of the Bení Umeyyah, ii. 61.
- Ibn 'Abdi-l-kerím Al-jerá'í, i. Pref. xxxi.
- Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán Ibn 'Alí Al-korayshí, ii. 168.
- Ibn 'Abdi-r-rahmán Ibn Dhí-n-nún, King of Toledo, ii. 255.
- Ibn Ahmed Ibn Sa'id Ibn Mohammed Ibnu-l-athír ('Imádu-d-dím), his commentary upon, and supplement to, the historical poem entitled 'Ab-dúniyyah', i. Pref. xxiii, 371.
- Ibn Bedr, poet, ii. 445.
- Ibn Mohammed (Abú-l-walíd Ash-shakandí or Ash-shekundí), historian, extracts from his work, i. 32—42, 44, 48, 52, 53, 57, 68, 72; account of his life and writings, 328.
- Ibn Músa Al-kasawí, one of the Bení Kasi, invades Cerdagne, ii. 451.
- Ibnu-l-kásim (Abú 'Alí Al-kálí), poet and philologer, works written by, i. 177, 184, 196, 478, ii. 138, 141; notice of, 464.
- 'Issám, son of Májikus, King of Ceuta, i. 541.
- 'Itáb Ibn 'Alkamah Al-lakhmí, ii. 68.
- Italica. See Tálakah.
- 'Itimád, wife of Al-mu'tamed, King of Seville, ii. 299.
- 'Ittáf, ancestor of the Bení 'Abbád, ii. 250.
- Ibn Zeyd, ii. 106.
- Iyád, tribe of, settles in Spain, ii. 402.
- 'Iyádh Ibn Músa Ibn 'Iyádh (Abú-l-fadhl Al-yahssobí), Kádí of Ceuta, his history of that city, i. Pref. xxxiii, 541.
- Ibn 'Okbah Al-fehrí, i. App. lxii; ii. 7, 397.
- Iyyal, mother of Al-mundhir, Sultán of Cordova, ii. 437.
- Jabbárah Ibn Is'hák Ibn Ghániyyah, ii. App. lxiii.
- Ja'd Ibn 'Abdi-l-gháfir, governor of Jaen, ii. 442, 447, 450, 459.
- Ja'far, son of 'Omar Ibn Hafssún, ii. 439; takes Toledo, 462.
- Ibn 'Abdi-l-gháfir, ii. 459.
- Ibn 'Abdi-l-malek or 'Abdi-l-málik Ibn Sa'id, poet, i. 490.
- Ibn Alfar or Alfaro, a descendant from Wit-tiza, ii. 415.
- Ibn 'Alí Ibn Hamdún, Lord of Masílah, in Africa, assists Al-mansúr in his usurpation, ii. 176, 180, 475.
- Ibn 'Othmán, i. App. lxxxviii.
- Ibn 'Othmán Al-mus'hafí, Wizír of Al-hakem II. of Cordova, i. 190, 212, 468, ii. 156, 165; is appointed Hájib to Hishám II., 158; quarrels with Al-mansúr, 181; is deprived of his office and thrown into prison, 183.
- Ibnu-l-ashtar, i. App. lxxvi.
- Ibn Zaryáb, ii. 118.
- Jakmak, college of, at Damascus, i. Pref. xxxii, 306.
- Jalalkah (Gallaici), name given by the Arabs to the inhabitants of Asturias and Galicia, i. 27, 372, 544; account of the, 75.
- Jalikiyyah (Galicia), invaded by Músa Ibn Nosseyr, i. 291; by 'Abdu-r-rahmán II., ii. 113; by 'Abdu-r-rahmán III., 134, 137; by Al-mansúr, 193; by his son 'Abdu-l-malek, 222.
- Jámí, poet, his life of the Mohammedan Súfis, i. 406.
- Jámí' Al-'abdis, a mosque in Seville, ii. 523.
- l-karawín (mosque of the people of Cairwán), at Fez, i. 222.
- Janda, la, a lake near Medina-Sidonia, i. 526.
- Ja'rafiyyah or Ja'ghrafiyyah, a geographical treatise, quotations from, i. 71, 78, 81, 393.
- Jauf, conjectural meaning of the word, i. 322, 495.
- Jauhar, general of the Fátimites or 'Obeydites of Africa, ii. 167.
- Ja'unah or Jo'unah Ibnu-s-samah (Abú-l-aj'rab) Al-kelebí, i. 189, 466.
- Jayne I. of Aragon, takes Mallorca, ii. 331; Valencia, App. lxxvii; Murcia, lxxviii.
- Jayyen or Jeyyán (Jaen), city, described, i. 53; also called Jayyenu-l-harír (Jaen of the silk), owing to its rearing of silk-worms, and Kennesrín, i. 362.
- Jazi Ibn 'Abdi-l-'azíz, of the house of Umeyyah, ii. 77.
- Jazúliyyah, a grammatical work written by Jazúli or Al-jazúli, i. 197, 480.